Mrs. N. M. Maxwell's fall opening of millinery will take place on Oct. 15 and 16 as is stated in her card on another page. She has a very fine stock of bonnets, hats and trimmings all in the latest styles and very handsome.

The big fire that partially destroyed the Spicers' mammoth packing establishment at Somerville and East Cambridge last Monday evening was as distinctly visible in this city as though it had been no further away than Winchester.

If it hadn't been for a present of a basket of capital peaches from Captain Edward Simonds, Probation Officer for the Fourth District Court (and a humane one too) last Saturday our Sunday dinner would have fallen something short of absolute perfection. Thanks, Uncle Edward!

Mr. Nathaniel Simonds has purchased the residence now occupied by him on Church Avenue Court and has secured a fine, pleasant home. He bought of Mr. Reade of Charlestown, a brother of Mr. Lawrence Reade of this city, and it is understood that he got a bargain of it.

These are the new Directors of Lyceum Hall Association: J. W. Hammond, President; John W. Johnson, Auditor; Winthrop Hammond, Treasurer; and Messrs. Joseph W. Hammond, John Johnson, Gavin R. Gage, Phineas G. Hanson, Winthrop Hammond, Robert J. W. Whitney and Charles A. Burdette, Directors.

Supr. Sewell of the N. W. S. R. attended the 7th annual reunion of the officers and employees of the Lynn and Boston St. Ry. at Lynn last Tuesday evening. Over 300 were present. The Chelsea boys and invited guests took the Marine Band along with them. President Reed, Supr. Foster and others made speeches; and the supper was a treat.

The Charitable Society of the First Congregational church presented to Dr. March, for his son who is missionary in Syria, a quilt made by the Society on which were the names of the donors, the Pastor, Deacons, etc. Miss French, teacher in the Industrial School, and Miss Alice Preston did a large share of the fine work of the quilt. This evening will come off in grand style at Lyceum Hall the society event of the fall. It is to be the anniversary celebration of the Ladies Auxiliary to the St. Charles C. T. A. S., observed in the shape of an assembly, with music, and everything else attractive. The arrangements have been in the hands of competent young ladies, whose efforts we hope will be crowned with splendid success.

Miss Hattie L. Couillard of Boston, formerly one of Woburn's best young ladies, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Henry J. Adams also of Boston, in this city last week by Rev. Dr. March. Miss Couillard was afraid that she couldn't quite feel the hymenal knot was properly tied unless Dr. March did it. He said and plenty to the happy couple is what the JOURNAL speaks for them.

A reputable citizen closes a long paragraph on Mr. Fred Lewis in these words: "Mr. Lewis came among us, his career has not been characterized by the brilliant episodes which capture the mob, but his example has been salutary and it should receive the nomination of all parties, and also receive ballots enough at the polls to elect him to the General Court at this juncture, it would be an event to rejoice the heart of every sincere friend of human progress. I heartily second the nomination of Mr. Lewis for Representative to the General Court.—DEMOCRAT.

Something About A Sermon.
EDITOR WOBURN JOURNAL: In the report of a sermon delivered at North Woburn on Sunday, Sept. 27, as published by one of your contemporaries, referring to the pending liquor prosecutions, the following statement appears:

"Woburn by a large vote said that licenses should be granted and as an expression of the majority of the voters those licenses had to be granted." The emphasis on the "had" is mine.

Now, if the minister of the Gospel who delivered that sermon was correctly reported he was guilty of a gross misstatement, for according to the law a town or city voting for license elects that license may be granted at the discretion of the Selectmen or Board of Aldermen, as the case may be—no compulsion about it whatever. In view of the well known fact that Mayor Bean was sustained by the Supreme Court in refusing to sign and thereby grant a license, such a statement as the foregoing savors of a degree of ignorance of current topics that is not generally expected of an educator of the people, leaving alone the very questionable action of talking from a pulpit in a manner calculated to prejudice the citizens of a town.

There is a legal penalty attached to action of this kind. With reference to the fling at the Selectmen and Board of Aldermen, and "spotters," it seems to me that if they do nothing worse than they did in connection with these cases, that "God will help such sinners." For our own Judge Converse spoke very highly of them at the trials.

Yours respectfully, CAR.

Mr. Editor: I agree with "Citizen" in his estimation of the character of Mr. F. Lewis, but cannot second his nomination. In the first place it is essential that the nominee has sufficiently pronounced views on the political issues of the day to be classed either as a Democrat or a Republican. Mr. Lewis is a man of no party, and he can't belong to both parties. "Citizen" evidently doesn't know where to place him for he urges his nomination either by the Republicans or Democrats.

A second objection to Mr. Lewis's availability lies in his attitude on the temperance question. He is a man of no party, and he can't belong to both parties. "Citizen" evidently doesn't know where to place him for he urges his nomination either by the Republicans or Democrats.

Against Mr. Lewis's candidacy there is a still stronger objection. I refer to the influence of the Boston & Maine Railroad. He has always fought this monopoly and sided with the Concord Railroad; so no one can doubt that he was nominated for the General Court to represent the Concord Railroad. He is a man of no party, and he can't belong to both parties. "Citizen" evidently doesn't know where to place him for he urges his nomination either by the Republicans or Democrats.

For these reasons I cannot second the "Citizen's" nomination of Mr. Lewis to the Legislature although I consider him a clean and representative citizen of Woburn.—X.

RESOLUTIONS.
At a meeting of the Leather Manufacturers Association, held Oct. 1, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the laws of the State, we will not press our profound sorrow that a life of such great utility as that of Mr. Lewis should be cut short by the untimely death of the Legislature although I consider him a clean and representative citizen of Woburn.—X.

Resolved, That our sincere and heartfelt sympathies be tendered to his afflicted family.

Resolved, That the resolution be read upon the records of the Association, published in the local papers, and every effort be made to secure the passage of the same.

Signed, E. P. FOX, Secretary.

Northwick's Wife.

ONE OF THOSE MISERABLE WOMEN WHO ARE SO COMMON IN ALL WALKS OF LIFE.

She was all her life a timorous creature, writes Mr. Howells in his new story in the Boston Sunday Herald, and after her marriage had seldom felt safe out of Northwick's presence. Her portrait, by Hunt, hanging over the mantelpiece, suggested something of this, though the painter had made the most of her thin, middle-aged blond good looks, and had given her a substance of general character which was more expressive of his own free and bold state than of the facts in the case. She was really one of those hen-mind women, who are so common in all walks of life, and are made up of only one aim at a time, and of manifold anxieties at all times. Her instinct for saving long survived the days of struggle in which she had joined, and Northwick's instinct for getting, she lived and died in the hope, if not the belief, that she contributed to his prosperity by looking after all manner of valueless odds and ends. But he had been passively happy with her; since her death, he had allowed her to return him to his thoughts, from which her troublesome solicitudes and her entire usefulness in important matters had obliged him to push her while she lived. He often had times when it seemed to him that he was thinking of her. At such times with a pang, he realized that he missed her; but, perhaps, the wound was to habit rather than affection. He now sat down in his swivel chair and turned it from the writing desk which stood on the rug before the fireplace and looked up into the portrait of Northwick's wife, and thought of her with a pang, he realized that he missed her; but, perhaps, the wound was to habit rather than affection. The Woburn Journal

FRIDAY, OCT. 16, 1891.

THE JOURNAL is for sale at the stores of Sparrow Horton, 109 Main Street, Charles R. Brown, 106 Main Street, John Cummings, 24, Cummingsville, Samuel E. Wynn, W. A. Hanson, North Woburn, and at G. F. Brown's Winchester.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

All advertisements, to insure insertion in this paper, must be handed in as early as 10 o'clock on Thursday forenoon.

FOR REPRESENTATIVES.

At the Republican 14th Middlesex Representative District convention held last Wednesday evening

HENRY C. HALL,
L. M. BANCROFT,

were nominated.
They are sterling men, and both will be elected.

A BIG MASS MEETING.

It was a splendid campaign rally that the Republicans of Woburn held last Monday evening. Lyceum Hall was crowded with the cream of the town. Many prominent ladies occupied the galleries and their presence was inspiring.

The Woburn Brass Band gave a liberal supply of the best of music. Mr. W. W. True, Chairman of the Ward and City Committee, introduced Hon. Edwin F. Wier as President of the meeting. On taking the chair Capt. Wier made a neat, smooth, telling speech.

Charles F. Loring, candidate for Councilor, was first introduced by Councilor Wier to address the multitude, which he proceeded to do in the most effective manner.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, Mr. C. came next and proceeded at once to give an U. S. Dist. Attorney Stearns of Chicago a severe tacking down for his misstatements, a piece of work which nobody can do more effectively or in better style than Congressman Lodge. He made an able, telling speech on current political issues which called forth frequent and enthusiastic applause.

Mr. Lowrey of Winchester also made a fine address.

The meeting was a perfect success.

DIDN'T WE TELL YOU SO?

Last week the JOURNAL expressed the belief that Editor Barrett would secure the Republican nomination for reelection to the Legislature. We said he had a habit of "getting there" and he would be sure to do so at the Melrose caucus last Monday evening.

Speaker Barrett got there! It was the toughest fight that his soreheaded opponents ever made against him, but he voted for him was 556, while Woburn's was only 330!

And if there ever was a fair fighter Barrett is one. He never hits his antagonist below the belt. But he hardly ever fails to make connections. The Melrose Republican soreheads will be likely to let Editor Barrett alone hereafter.

Editor Barrett is a worker. He is as keen as a razor. He looks out for a good place to hit the other man and then lets go straight from the shoulder.

But the chief reason for Speaker Barrett's signal successes in the past has been that his cause was just. To that fact more than to anything else has been due his repeated and brilliant political triumphs.

The business at the Melrose caucus last Monday night will give Mr. Barrett his third term as Speaker of the Massachusetts House.

THE WAY TO WIN.

It will be an easy enough job for the Republicans to elect Col. Allen this fall if they really want to. There are more Republicans in Massachusetts than there are Democrats and Mugwumps put together by 10,000 or 15,000 and that means of course that they can carry the day next month if they will do their whole duty.

Reports from all quarters indicate that they are alive to the situation and are preparing to meet it. A thorough canvass is going on all over the State; registration is about pretty near to being perfect; house to house missionary work is the command from headquarters; and it is safe to say that the number of Republican stay-at-homes will fall far short of that of recent years.

Earnest and effective work is being done all around the board and if it is kept up until the polls close on election night the Republicans will win the fight as sure as fate.

PROBABLY NOTING IN IT.

A rumor is current to the effect that the rabid temperance Republicans of this District contemplate a bolt against Charles F. Loring, Esq., the honorably nominated candidate of our party for Councilor.

So far as we have been able to trace the story not the least foundation for it is to be found in it. Mr. Loring is all right in every particular and no genuine Republican has any business to vote against him or fail to vote for him.

—Brewster Colony, P. F., gave a fine entertainment last evening.

—The most sensible thing the Republicans of Woburn ever did was to nominate Major Hall.

—Mark what Real Estate Agent Gregory has to say in his new card.
—Winter is coming along apace. It will soon be here.

—There was a very heavy and much needed rain last Tuesday night.

—The best piano tuner in this section is Mr. James W. McDonald of this city.

—Mr. C. M. Munroe's stock of fall hats includes all the latest and noblest styles out.

—Dr. Seth W. Kelley's new covered gig cuts a pretty wide swath. It is a neat one.

—Henry Carter left for Colorado last week to try the climate of the Centennial State.

—Dr. March attended the annual meeting of the American Board at Pittsfield this week.

—Mr. Fred C. Emery, ex-Councilman of Ward 7, is about to move to New Hampshire to live.

—Special attention is called to the advertisement of the Evening Drawing Schools by Supt. Richardson in this paper.

—Mr. B. F. Kimball, one of the representative men of Ward 6, and his lady have been visiting New Hampshire of late.

—The Slatery Dramatic Club are preparing to bring out a fine play on next Thanksgiving Day evening and also on the evening after.

—No doubt the reception given the teachers of the First Congregational Sunday School at the church last evening was a gay and festive affair.

—Don't fail to read the outside pages of this paper this week. They contain rich food for stalwart Republicans to feast on. Read with care.

—The nomination of Major Hall for Representative was a big hit. He is just as sure of an election as the sun is to rise on the morning of Nov. 3.

—John Brauer & Sons are manufacturers of one of the best remedies for rheumatism that can be found. The Senior Brauer is on the road disposing of this and other remedies.

—Baldwin Council, 125, R. A. held their first meeting in their new hall last Tuesday evening, at which the Council was inspected by Dis. Dep. Eli T. Dillon of Somerville. Trainings were in order later on.

—Last Saturday evening the Democrats of the 14th Middlesex Representative District held their convention in this city and nominated Thomas D. Hevey, Esq., of this city and selected Mr. Calvin L. Martin of Reading as his colleague.

—This evening Crystal Fount Lodge, I. O. O. F. and Hope Lodge, D. of R., will hold a joint celebration of the 20th anniversary of the organization of the former, and 8th of the latter. There will be a reception, banquet and entertainment.

—Mr. Jennings's Intelligence Office is a perfectly reliable one and is patronized by all the best people of Woburn, Winchester, Stoneham, Lexington and other neighboring places. The proprietor has a rare facility for making such an establishment a success.

—President Waldron of the Common Council was seen at his former place of duty, the City of Boston, on Wednesday and learned from him that he is very nearly fully recovered from a severe and protracted illness. We were glad to see him out again.

—Diphtheria is prevailing to an alarming extent at Melrose, which ought to be a warning to our people to take measures to guard against its introduction into Woburn. Melrose is but a short distance away and between it and this city there is a great deal of travel.

—The Y. P. S. C. E. over at Montvale have chosen the following officers: President, Henry A. Hanson; Vice President, Arthur Perkins; Secretary, Mrs. Ida Hall; Treasurer, William Greenough. The Society is in a prosperous condition and is doing much good.

—Mr. J. L. Pinkham informs us that Dr. F. W. Graves and party sailed from Liverpool on Oct. 8 on the Cephalonia and are due in Boston next Sunday, Oct. 18. In his note Mr. Pinkham Dr. Graves said they were all well and had enjoyed their trip abroad very much.

—The following named gentlemen compose the Democratic 14th Middlesex Representative District Committee: John J. Short, Thomas Quinn, Marcellus Littlefield, John P. Delaney, Lawrence Martin, James Wolf, Frank Doherty, all of Woburn, and John Whelton of Reading.

—We received a very pleasant call from Miss Grace Twombly, granddaughter of Mr. S. W. Twombly, of the West Side, Winchester, last Saturday forenoon. She is, according to her grandfather's idea, an estimable young lady (of 3 years), and we found her a very agreeable visitor.

—The Boston Clothing Co.'s store looks a little different from what it used to. Under the management of Mr. William W. Wade a great change for the better has taken place and business has greatly improved. Good goods, prompt service, and fair deal are what Mr. Wade relies on to bring customers to his store.

—The graduates of the Woburn High School are making their marks all around the board. The last to do so was Edward Cummings of W. H. S. Class '79 and Harvard College '89, who has recently been appointed Professor of Political Economy at Harvard University, which of course is an important place and to occupy it a distinguished honor.

—The JOURNAL has been pretty well loaded down with advertisements of late. Careful and intelligent men are seldom at a loss where to invest in printer's ink in order to reap the greatest benefit from it, which fact no doubt accounts largely for the liberal advertising patronage which the JOURNAL enjoys year in and year out. The subscribers and readers of the JOURNAL are people who are able to spend money for just the goods which the largest advertisers keep for sale.

—Gentle reader, please pardon the lack of food on our inside this week for the sustenance of your intellectual systems. Our next issue will be a political and literary screamer!

—The Ladies of the Methodist Church will have a sale of useful and fancy articles including an "Art Gallery" at the Church on Thursday evening, the 22d inst. Ice Cream for sale. Also, they will serve on that occasion one of their well-known first-class suppers. The latter from 6 to 8 o'clock. Price of supper 25 cents; children 12 cents and under, 10 cents.

—City Tax-Collector, John G. Maguire, Esq., and his able Assistant Mrs. Phillips, may be seen any hour of the day quietly standing behind the rail that separates them from the outside world, with arms gently akimbo, softly singing, with a merry twinkle of the eye, "Will you come into the parlor?" etc., ready to take the people's money in exchange for taxes and give receipts therefor with neatness and dispatch.

—This community will deeply sympathize with Mr. William F. Cummings, the plumber, son of Mr. W. H. Cummings of Cleveland Ave., in the loss of his wife (May Hunting before marriage), at his home in Melrose Highlands of malignant diphtheria, on last Monday morning. They had been married only about four months and moved from this city to Melrose Highlands soon after their wedding. It is a severe blow to Mr. Cummings.

—That the public was never better satisfied with the way trains are run on the Boston & Lowell road than under the present arrangement. "They say" in Somerville Citizen. Such is the verdict all along the line. Messrs. Farber, General Superintendent of the B. & M., and Superintendent Sanborn of the Southern Division of the B. & M. (B. & L.), leave nothing undone to give their patrons a passenger service as near perfect as it is possible to arrange.

—Lovers of good music and a right down good time can get both in heaped-up measure at the concert to be given on next Wednesday evening, Oct. 21, by Perseverance Division, Sons of Temperance. We hope the concert will be liberally patronized. Any body or society that is helping along the cause of temperance deserves generous support, and that is just what Perseverance Division are doing. Very fine talent has been engaged for the entertainment.

—At a regular meeting held on the evening of Oct. 8, the Woburn Co-operative Bank sold all of its 10th series of shares (300) at premiums ranging from 35 cents (the highest that it has ever sold) to 50 cents and 50 cents per share. The sum of $2900 (for which there were 3 bids) was sold and $4500 was applied for, showing unmistakably that the merits of the institution are well understood by investors and borrowers. Secretary Whitely reports that the affairs of the Bank were never in a more prosperous condition or enjoyed a brighter prospect for future business and success.

—Mr. Amos Cummings is as busy as a bee getting ready for his grand annual millinery opening on Wednesday, Oct. 22. As near as we can get at it Mr. Cummings is going to outdo himself this time in extent, variety and richness of display, and we all know what that means. His head milliner is an artist. Boston hasn't anything his superior in the way of fine taste and good judgment.

—The stock she has got to "do" with is unexcelled by anything now or ever before seen here. Ladies of Woburn and neighboring places, don't forget the date of Mr. Cummings's great millinery opening—Oct. 22.

—Mr. Moses Bancroft's stuffed porcupine, which stands up in the display window of his shoe store on the corner of Main street and Montvale Ave., looks as "big as life and twice as natural." He secured the beast while on a trip to New Hampshire, and being one of the finest specimens ever captured, Mr. Bancroft concluded to put him through a special course of taxidermy which was performed by Mr. Newell of Boston in such perfect style that one is puzzled to say whether the animal is a "make-believe" or a "living know-so."

—The looking looking customer with his big battery of quills attract much attention.

—Rev. Mr. Jones, a missionary stationed at Madura, India, and a warm friend of Rev. James Fowler, minister of Woburn but for many years a missionary also in India, preached missionary sermons at the Congregational Church last Sunday to large and interested audiences. His tales of missionary life in far-off "India's coral strand" fell on deeply attentive ears and sympathetic hearts, and many new facts were learned and new ideas gained. Mr. Jones's style of talking to an audience taken in connection with the importance of his theme could not but enhance the attention of his hearers and greatly interest them.

—We have been informed that the School Board of this city propose to take the matter of the request of the Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society to allow an agent of theirs to make 10-minute addresses to each of our city schools on temperance and present the pledge to the pupils for signatures which was unanimously rejected at their last meeting, to the utter surprise and regret of nearly every temperance person and Christian in our city, again. Considering the personnel of the Board, their relation to the churches, and what facts were learned and new ideas gained, it ought to be towards temperance organizations, the vote on the petition of the Mass. Total Ab. Society the other night was truly astonishing.

—A JOURNAL representative visited the Health Food Exposition in Mechanic Building, Huntington Avenue, Boston, the other day, and was allured away with what he saw, heard, and ate. He never got full (of victuals) before in all his life, for of course he took a bite, sip and swallow of everything offered for him to sample, and we didn't know that night but what a doctor would have to be called in. It is a mammoth show, and there is anything edible under the canopy that is not represented in it. He should be glad to be informed what the man, woman or child who misses a visit to this big Health Food Exhibition will miss the opportunity his life.

—The Friday Night Club connected with the Unitarian Church in this city is one of the best and most prosperous social associations we have here. It has always been conducted by the best executive talent in the church and its lecture courses, seasons of entertainments, and its manifold endeavors to promote the good of the community have always been of the highest merit there liberally patronized. The annual meeting of the Club was held on last Friday evening in the parlors of the Unitarian church at which the following officers were chosen for the current year: President, William F. Davis; Vice Presidents, Henry M. Aldrich and Charles C. Parker; Secretary, Harry B. Brackett; Treasurer, W. A. Parker; Board of Directors, Heber Clewley, Albert Thompson, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Phinney.

—On last Saturday we received a letter written at the Northumberland Hotel in Dublin, Ireland, on Sept. 28, by our esteemed fellow townsman Mr. B. C. Golden of Montvale, Superintendent of the Reader, Adamson & Company glue works over there, in answer to the letter of the 10th inst. through the courtesy of the many good friends here, that he and his daughter Nellie were then intending to take a first cabin passage on the Cunarder Catalonia at Liverpool for Boston on Oct. 1. Mr. Golden and his daughter have had a delightful visit in Ireland and elsewhere on the other side. They traveled over many sections of the "Green Isle" visited many places of interest, especially to those born of the "Old Sod," and have seen and enjoyed many things which neither of them will soon forget. Neighbors and friends will give Mr. Golden and Nellie a warm welcome back to Montvale.

—Aberjona Colony, No. 131, U. O. P. F., will give their grand annual dance at Lyceum Hall on the evening of Oct. 30, for which big preparations are in progress. The affair will be in charge of the following: President, Mr. Lawrence Read, Assist. Floor Directors, Dora T. Fuller, Aids, Timothy Calnan, Katherine A. McElroy, Celia A. Keane, Mrs. J. C. Finnegan, Thomas Fox, Thomas Casey and Martin J. Walsh. The Committee of Arrangements: E. L. Packard, Thomas Fox, Timothy Calnan, Dora T. Fuller, Katherine A. McElroy, William J. Keane, Edward J. Gregory, Thomas F. McCormack, William Doyle.

—The G. A. R. are delighted over the nomination of Major Hall for the Legislature. Every man of them will not only vote for the Major but will try to get everybody else to do so.

Miss Bancroft's Recital.
The Baptist Church was the scene of a most enjoyable recital last Tuesday evening when Miss Grace Twombly, granddaughter of Mr. S. W. Twombly, gave to her friends a truly musical treat. The entire programme was played in a most finished and artistic manner, and the musical interpretation of the varied style of the ten selections displayed to pleasing advantage the ability and talent of the pianist. The group of pieces by modern writers was a happy selection and was rendered with much grace and style. The last number deserves a most brilliant and successful conclusion. Miss Bancroft has a fine sympathetic touch and seems to have the power of carrying the audience with her. She was ably assisted by Mrs. Phinney and Mrs. Davis of Woburn. Mrs. Phinney sang a group of classic songs in her usual artistic style, and Mrs. Davis added to the group of pieces by modern writers a happy selection and was rendered with much grace and style. The last number deserves a most brilliant and successful conclusion.

—The Ladies were elegantly attired and many of the lovely gowns of the evening dress, and a finer appearing company of dancers never held Lyceum Hall. A Globe reporter undertook to give a description of the affair, and in the midst of the dance, after enumerating a few he gave up the task because they were all so beautiful that he could not find words to describe them. Suffice it to say, that "beauty" was never more charmingly and tastefully "adorned" than on that gay and festive occasion.

—Everything passed off delightfully and this first reunion of the Ladies Auxiliary club was a most successful and social success which it is richly deserved.

The Lewis Music School.
This flourishing institution has passed the experimental stage of its existence and become a solid, substantial fact. Not many people had faith in it on the start, and even the friends of the school were not without many misgivings as to the possibility of making a first-class music school live on Woburn. The community as well as Mr. Lewis were happily disappointed. Energy, rare executive ability, push, pluck, a liberal outlay of the best musical talent, and a high estimate of the importance of what to this city is a new and interesting institution. The Lewis Music School has really been a success from the start. For a year or so the sledding might have been better and progress easier, but subsequent to that, as the existence and high merits of the School became better known, the attendance increased and progress since has been easy. Assistant Principal, Mrs. Lewis, is an accomplished teacher of the piano and she renders very valuable aid to the Proprietor as an instructor in the School. Gifted teachers of the guitar, harp, violin and other instruments are employed in short, students can obtain at the Lewis Music School the best of musical instruction. They are highly enjoyed by large audiences of appreciative people.

For particulars respecting the next and subsequent terms of the school the reader is directed to Mr. Lewis's card in this issue of the JOURNAL.

Woburn Conference.
The autumn meeting of the Woburn Conference of Churches was held on the Congregational at Woburn and fully attended by ministers and laymen from towns and cities comprising the conference. Woburn was represented by a large delegation of ladies and gentlemen.

Henry Cabot Lodge on Protection.
One of the most masterly arguments ever made in favor of Protection will appear in the November Arden from the pen of Congressman Henry Cabot Lodge. It occupies sixteen pages, is full of valuable tables and should be in the hands of every voter who believes in the American system of Protection. A fine portrait of Mr. Lodge forms the frontispiece of the November Arden.

A Brilliant Ball.
The assembly given by the Ladies Auxiliary, St. Charles C. T. A. Society, at Lyceum Hall on last Friday evening was a brilliant event. It had been advertised quite extensively by the local papers, and much was expected of it, and yet when the affair came actually to take place few were prepared to see anything half so fine as it proved to be.

It was the Auxiliary's first annual reunion and of its success the ladies had a perfect right to feel very proud. The Auxiliary were composed of quite a large number of the brightest and truest Catholic young ladies in this city, organized to aid and assist the Catholic cause, and to promote the good of the community. The Auxiliary is a temperance body deserving the encouragement and support of all friends of law, order and good morals in Woburn.

One of those friends of law, order and good morals had occupied a seat in the gallery to the right of the stage, and when the floor below was appropriated and almost entirely covered with the young patrons of the ball, and had made a note on his mental notes to the effect that this gay, happy and fine looking company were pledged to temperance—to total abstinence from alcohol and all its kindred evils.

The music on the solemn occasion was grand. Mr. John C. Buck, the organist of the church, presided at the organ and played a sweet and appropriate voluntary. The choir of the church, under the direction of Mr. John C. Buck, rendered a beautiful hymn, and when it was placed on the altar the exercises began with "Still, Still, Still," their beautiful rendering by the Quartette, Miss Stella Lincoln, Miss Edith Ramsdell, Mr. Zoeth W. Atwood, Mr. Herbert W. Munn, led by Mr. Buck on his organ. Another piece by the Quartet, and a glowing eulogy on the life and character of the deceased which must have proved a healing balm to many wounded hearts. The services, which were very solemn and impressive, closed with a benediction by Mr. Parker.

The floral display exceeded in wealth and beauty anything of the kind ever seen in this city. It seemed as though the several societies to which he was a respected and active member, his numerous friends, his family, and the people generally, vied amongst themselves and tried to outdo each other in the amount and beauty of their floral tributes to the worth of their dear departed and greatly lamented, and the result was many splendid and beautiful pieces of the rarest products of the best gardens in this and other cities. One of the most beautiful and beautiful of the most splendid pieces was a handsome wreath of white roses and foliage from Mr. Charles M. Munroe, a life-long friend of Mr. Woodman, who was a respected and active member of the church, and a very large and beautiful "Gates Ajar," and other magnificent pieces. Mr. Walter Cross, of the Dow Greenhouses, furnished many of the set pieces and bouquets and many others were from the houses of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Hovey. The space in front of the altar was filled with a beautiful display of flowers, and the result was many splendid and beautiful pieces of the rarest products of the best gardens in this and other cities.

"He Had Better Die."

(From "The Quality of Mercy" in Boston Sunday Herald.)

"I there any trouble there?" the girl asked from the place she had resumed. She held by one hand from the corner of the mantle, and let her head drop over on her arm. Her father had a sense of extraordinary beauty, as a stranger might have had. "Trouble?" he echoed.

"With the hands."

"Oh, not nothing of that sort. What made you think so?" asked Northwick, rapidly exploring the perspective opened up in his mind by her question, to see if it contained any suggestion of advantage to him. He found an instant's relief in figuring himself called to the mills by a labor trouble.

"That tiresome little wretch of a Putney is going about circulating all sorts of reports."

"There is no reason as yet to suppose the strike will affect us," said Northwick. "But I think I had better be on the ground."

"I should think you could leave it to the superintendent," said the girl, "without wearing your own life out about it."

"I suppose I might," said Northwick, with an effect of refusing to acquire more by his behavior, "but the other hands all know me so well that—"

"He stopped, as if it were unnecessary to go on, and the elder daughter said: "He is on one of his sprees again. I should think something ought to be done about him, for his family."

"Edridge told James that you almost drove over him coming up."

"Yes," said Northwick. "I didn't see him until he started up under the horse's feet."

"He will get killed some of these days," said Addie, with the sort of careful satisfaction in realizing a catastrophe, which delicate women often feel.

"It would be the best thing for him," said her sister, "and for his family too. When a man is nothing but a burden and a disgrace to himself and everybody belonging to him, he had better be as soon as possible."

Northwick said looking into his daughter's beautiful face, but he saw the inflamed and cold glare of the president of the board, and he heard him saying: "The best thing that could happen to you on your way home would be a good railroad accident."

"As As Like Two Pins in a Pod."

Last Saturday evening the jolly column of the bright Boston Record contained the following "good ones" on Judge Edward F. Johnson of this city and a sort of "running mate."

Edward F. Johnson of Woburn, justice of the District Court, is known by night, at least to about everybody in that city.

Edward F. Johnson of Marlboro, justice of the District Court, is equally as well known in that city.

To add to the coincidence their middle names are the same—Francis—and their signatures are so much alike that an expert writing would be puzzled to tell them apart.

If you don't believe it go and look over the pay rolls at Cambridge.

A short time ago, Judge Johnson of Woburn had occasion to sign a document to be approved by Judge Brooks. Judge Johnson of Marlboro was present and signed as a witness.

"Look here," said Judge Brooks, "you can't witness your own signature!"

"But I haven't," answered Judge J. of Woburn.

"No, the witnessing signature is mine," said to Judge J. of Marlboro.

"Gentlemen," said the puzzled judge, "do you see anything the matter with me this morning?"

To try to clear up the mystery, the two oh-so-wrote their names on a scrap of paper.

The judge was convinced, but the bystanders haven't yet got through chuckling over the episode.

Boston Journal.

The "Old Reliable," like the rest of them, is at last gone and done it. By which is meant: The Boston Journal has changed make-up from a folio to a quarto, the latter being the prevailing style just now. Probably we shall come to like it far better than the change grows more familiar to our sight.

But no change of form can improve the editorial, political and news qualities of The Journal, for these are "Old Reliable" every day in the week, Sundays excepted.

Boston Theatres.
BOSTON THEATRE.

Denman Thompson in "The Old Homestead." It is still here, although the largest theatre in the country it is too small to seat all who seek admittance. Excursion parties from all parts of New England find to make up the audience. The play has a moral which cannot help but impress all who attend. The matinees are patronized by great numbers of children who more than delighted with its rural scenes.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Henshaw and Ten Broeck the rest of the week, and to say they have delighted thousands would be putting it mildly. Next Monday Weber and Fields Gigantic Specialty Co. will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House and with such a company of artists they should fill it to the doors. They will introduce new songs, dances, music and a great number of new specialties and there will be no room for "dull care" during their engagement.

BOSTON MUSEUM.

"The Schoolmistress" is drawing full houses and the Museum Company seem to draw the more of them each year. Annie Clark, "The Schoolmistress," is known of all. Geo. Wilson as Hon. Verne Henshaw, and Miss O'Leary as Peggy Henshaw, in fact none of the members of this popular company need mention to the theatre going public.

PARK THEATRE.

Neil Burgess in "County Fair" will be the attraction of the week. There is just dead loads of fun in it.

HOLLIS THEATRE.

"Ship Aho!" is delighting large audiences this week and the opera is just as jolly and full of fun as ever. Next Monday Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre Company of New York will begin a two weeks engagement at the Hollis. "The Idler" "The Charity Ball" and "The Wife" will be the attraction this week and "Old Heads and Young Hearts."

COLLEGE THEATRE.

"What a Gem" is what all who attend this new theatre and not only it is praised but the attraction "Men and Women" is being presented by Charles Frohman's Company to a large and enthusiastic audience in a most satisfactory manner. It is a play which presents striking human characteristics—a story of temptation, weakness, remorse, repentance and retribution the last brought about by a faithful woman who has love been a beacon light to the misguided and erring.

GLOBE THEATRE.

"Wang" by Messrs. Cheever Goodwin and Woolson Moore opened a two weeks engagement at the Globe when the seating capacity of the house was too limited to gratify all who desired to see the play. It is a play which presents striking human characteristics—a story of temptation, weakness, remorse, repentance and retribution the last brought about by a faithful woman who has love been a beacon light to the misguided and erring.

MORIT WINE.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve, Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. F. E. Lovell, Druggist.

"Their Name Is Legion."

EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL: You seem to have a plenty of letters in your paper about the office of Representative, and some of the suggestions which they make are quite sensible. I don't agree with all the names they put forth for nomination although there isn't one of them but what is a good man and citizen. The trouble of some of them, I think, is that they will not draw votes. I am strongly of the opinion, Mr. Editor, that the Republicans will be able to elect their candidates for the Legislature from the District that fall if they only pull together, and select their best and most popular man.

I think Capt. Wey will get a very large vote in this city. I know of some Democrats who will vote for him.

NEEDS EXPLANATION.—Why was not longer notice given for holding the Bedford Republican Representative caucus last Tuesday? Some did not get their notices until after the caucus was held. Was there a cut under the meat? A postal card notice to Mr. A. Prouty, who was a prominent candidate, did not come to hand until Wednesday! He probably lost the nomination by it. Who was to blame? Not Mr. Prouty.—X.

An Act relating to the Employment of Minors who cannot read or write in the English Language.

HAVE A SUBJECT as big as you can. Boil it down as small as you can. Say everything as strong as you can. On the three things hang all the law and prophecy of business. To do business honestly is as noble as to preach an inspiring sermon. As a text we take furniture, as subject matter we take original ideas and designs, as argument we show purchasers through our establishment and feel secure they will be convinced we are with the times—a little ahead if anything.

Commit Verses, 13-17—Golden Text, Phil. ii, 5—Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Compiled from Lesson Helper Quarterly by permission of H. S. Hoffman, publisher, Philadelphia.

1. "Now before the feast of the passover, when Jesus knew that His hour was come that He should depart out of this world unto the Father."

2. "And supper being ended, the devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray Him."

3. "Jesus knowing that the Father had given all things into His hands, and that He was come from God and went to God."

4. "He riseth from supper, and laid aside His garments; and took a towel and girded Himself."

5. "In this and the following verse see a screen fold action indicating the complete Jesus could not do anything imperfectly. The laying aside of His garments reminds of Israel's high priest, who on the day of atonement laid aside his garments of glory and beauty that clothed only in white linen he might go into the holy of holies to make atonement for the sins of the nation (Lev. xvi, 4). It also suggests to us that Jesus laid aside the glory which He had with the Father before the world was that He might become our atonement to cleanse us from all sin (II Cor. v, 21)."

6. "After that He poureth water into a basin, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel where with He was girded."

7. "Then cometh He to Simon Peter, and Peter saith unto Him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet?"

8. "Peter saith unto Him, Lord, thou shalt never wash my feet."

9. "Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter."

10. "Jesus saith unto him, He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit."

11. "When we receive Jesus as our Saviour we are immediately accepted in Him, and are washed, justified and sanctified, complete in Him (Eph. i, 6, 7; I Cor. vi, 11, Col. ii, 10), so that by His finished work we are made perfectly whole as to our standing before God and acceptance with God. But in reference to our state in this world and our daily life, we are constantly liable to contract defilement from without or become defiled by yielding to the sin that is within us, and therefore need this constant cleansing or washing of our feet as the part that comes in contact with the earth. It is the figure of one having bathed, but needing afterward to cleanse the feet."

12. "And ye are clean, but not all, for He knew who should betray Him; and there fore said He, Ye are not all clean."

13. "So after He had washed their feet, and had taken His garments, and was set down again, He said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you?"

14. "If I, then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet."

15. "That we are not our own but bought with a price is found in I Cor. vi, 19, 30. That Paul and Peter and James loved to call themselves servants or bond slaves of Jesus is seen in Phil. i, 1; Titus i, 1; Jas. i, 1; I Pet. i, 1; and that as servants of Christ we are to have the mind of Christ is seen in our golden text, Phil. ii, 5."

16. "For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you, in order that ye may love one another, each other of faults and sins. We may correct and cleanse each other by the Word of God."

18. "There are those who rebel against being servants, and know not at least one preacher who teaches his people that no one should be the servant of another, but such is not the spirit of Christ. He teaches us that 'He that is greatest is to be last, and he that will be first must be last of all' (Luke xiii, 30). He teaches also that as we are servants must not think to receive better treatment than He received (chapter xv, 20). We are to serve as the servant of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart (Eph. vi, 6). Being made free from sin and become servants to God, we are to have our fruit unto holiness (Rom. vi, 22)."

19. "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them. To know and not to do is only to bring upon ourselves greater condemnation (Luke xii, 47-48). The gospel is a record of the things that Jesus began to do and teach (Acts i, 1); and this is the order in which we have it in this lesson, first the doing and then the teaching. If we are brothers only, and not doers, we deceive ourselves (Jas. i, 22). Jesus said, 'Whoso ever shall do the will of God the same is my brother, and my sister, and mother' (Mark iii, 35). 'My mother and my brethren are these which hear the word of God and do it' (Luke xvi, 26). For our further encouragement He tells us that whatever we do to another in His name we do to Him, and He counts it (verse 20, Math. xxv, 40). Yield fully to Him, rejoice in oneness with Him, and He by His Spirit in you will do all things."

20. "The Swiss colony of New York has preserved the city with a Helvetic national flag."

21. "After all the best way to know the real merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla, is to try it yourself. Be sure to get Hood's."

22. "There are 1930 foreign students at German universities; 331 of them are from Russia, 238 from Austria, 225 are Swiss, 117 English and 143 Americans, mostly from the United States."

23. "The cotton mills of Fall River and other manufacturing centers are a good example of the beneficial effects of the McKinley bill. The mills making the finer grades, on which the tariff was increased, have found the demand much increased in consequence of the reduction of the imports. This has caused other mills to change to the finer grades, thereby alone the mills making the coarser grades. Doubtless the threatened reduction of wages at Fall River was averted by the favorable operation of the new tariff law. Besides this, the yarn and thread mills report a great increase of business as the direct result of the McKinley bill."

24. "The Republican platform as to the tariff is easily stated as follows: (1) Repeat all taxes on home production, except on spirits, tobacco and beer; (2) highest rates practicable on articles of luxury; (3) on imported articles competing with our own people such duty as will protect the latter against foreign competition; (4) the repeal of duty on articles of prime necessity which cannot be produced here in sufficient quantity; (5) introduction here free of duty of articles we cannot produce in reciprocity for entry free abroad of articles of American production."

25. "The tariff has caused a shut down of the tin plate mills since last June, broken the Welsh tin plate trust which dictated prices to American consumers, given employment to thousands and thousands of American skilled workmen whose wages were spent here and produced a better article of plate than was imported."

26. "It is now plainly seen that the increase of the price of potatoes last year was not owing to the McKinley bill as charged, but to a short crop. With a larger crop this year prices are correspondingly lower."

27. "A God-send is Ely's Cream Balm. I had catarrh for three years. Two or three times a week my nose would bleed. Your balm has cured me."—Mrs. M. A. Jackson, Portsmouth, N. H.

28. "I was so much troubled with catarrh it seriously affected my voice. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm did the work. My voice is fully restored."—B. F. Liepner, A. M., Pastor of the Olivet Baptist Church, Philadelphia, Pa.

29. "Uncle Sam's is the wealthiest nation."

30. "I was taken sick one year ago with another doctor said was overflowed of the gall, and what else of the liver. They thought I could not live. My mother persuaded me to try Favorite Remedy. My health was never better than it is today. I lost a weight of one hundred forty pounds. Favorite Remedy saved my life. I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. JENNIE KENNEDY, Virgil, N. Y.

32. "I have above to make good His word to Peter, 'Thou shalt know hereafter, or after these things' (verse 7). Teaching by object lessons begun in Eden with the Tree of Life, the cherubim and the flaming sword. Israel was taught that Aaron was the chosen of God by the rod that budded, blossomed and bore fruit, and the nation was taught holiness by the rite of the fringes of their garments. Ezekiel commanded not to mourn for his wife was a sign or object lesson to Israel, and now Jesus has given His disciples something to remember and put in practice."

33. "Ye call Me Master and Lord; and ye say well, for so I am."

"The tariff has caused a shut down of the tin plate mills since last June, broken the Welsh tin plate trust which dictated prices to American consumers, given employment to thousands and thousands of American skilled workmen whose wages were spent here and produced a better article of plate than was imported."

106. "It is now plainly seen that the increase of the price of potatoes last year was not owing to the McKinley bill as charged, but to a short crop. With a larger crop this year prices are correspondingly lower."

107. "A God-send is Ely's Cream Balm. I had catarrh for three years. Two or three times a week my nose would bleed. Your balm has cured me."—Mrs. M. A. Jackson, Portsmouth, N. H.

108. "I was so much troubled with catarrh it seriously affected my voice. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm did the work. My voice is fully restored."—B. F. Liepner, A. M., Pastor of the Olivet Baptist Church, Philadelphia, Pa.

109. "Uncle Sam's is the wealthiest nation."

110. "I was taken sick one year ago with another doctor said was overflowed of the gall, and what else of the liver. They thought I could not live. My mother persuaded me to try Favorite Remedy. My health was never better than it is today. I lost a weight of one hundred forty pounds. Favorite Remedy saved my life. I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. JENNIE KENNEDY, Virgil, N. Y.

111. "Instantaneous photography has been used to record the movements of the hips in speaking and by putting the photographs in a zoetrope a deaf mute can easily read the words."

112. "I have above to make good His word to Peter, 'Thou shalt know hereafter, or after these things' (verse 7). Teaching by object lessons begun in Eden with the Tree of Life, the cherubim and the flaming sword. Israel was taught that Aaron was the chosen of God by the rod that budded, blossomed and bore fruit, and the nation was taught holiness by the rite of the fringes of their garments. Ezekiel commanded not to mourn for his wife was a sign or object lesson to Israel, and now Jesus has given His disciples something to remember and put in practice."

113. "Ye call Me Master and Lord; and ye say well, for so I am."

114. "If I, then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet."

115. "That we are not our own but bought with a price is found in I Cor. vi, 19, 30. That Paul and Peter and James loved to call themselves servants or bond slaves of Jesus is seen in Phil. i, 1; Titus i, 1; Jas. i, 1; I Pet. i, 1; and that as servants of Christ we are to have the mind of Christ is seen in our golden text, Phil. ii, 5."

116. "For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you, in order that ye may love one another, each other of faults and sins. We may correct and cleanse each other by the Word of God."

118. "There are those who rebel against being servants, and know not at least one preacher who teaches his people that no one should be the servant of another, but such is not the spirit of Christ. He teaches us that 'He that is greatest is to be last, and he that will be first must be last of all' (Luke xiii, 30). He teaches also that as we are servants must not think to receive better treatment than He received (chapter xv, 20). We are to serve as the servant of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart (Eph. vi, 6). Being made free from sin and become servants to God, we are to have our fruit unto holiness (Rom. vi, 22)."

119. "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them. To know and not to do is only to bring upon ourselves greater condemnation (Luke xii, 47-48). The gospel is a record of the things that Jesus began to do and teach (Acts i, 1); and this is the order in which we have it in this lesson, first the doing and then the teaching. If we are brothers only, and not doers, we deceive ourselves (Jas. i, 22). Jesus said, 'Whoso ever shall do the will of God the same is my brother, and

LESSON IV, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, OCT. 25.

Text of the Lesson, John xiv. 1-3 and 15-27—Commit Verses, 1-3—Golden Text, John xv. 10—Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Compiled from Lesson Helper Quarterly by permission of H. S. Hoffman, publisher, Philadelphia.]

1. "Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in Me."
The passerover lamb had been eaten, the supper to commemorate. "The Lord's death till He come" had been instituted, and very soon now He would go forth to his agony in Gethsemane, but He thinks not of Himself, He feels for these sheep whom He is so soon to leave, and He comforts them.

2. "In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you, I go to prepare a place for you."
After the resurrection He said, "My Father and your Father" (xx. 17). Being in Him, His Father is our Father, and all the glory given to Him, He shares with us (xvii. 22). "What the mansions are we may not know, but every believer may thank fully say, there is one prepared for me."

3. "And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto Myself; that where I am, there ye may be also."
15. "If ye love Me keep My commandments."

The questions of Thomas and Philip and the Saviour's replies to them are passed over in the intervening verses, but I trust the teachers will not pass them over. Every word of Christ has a breadth and length and depth and height that eternity alone can unfold. Observe particularly the great promises of verses 13, 14 and the key words, "In My name." "That the Father may be glorified." The verse we are now upon may be more fully before us in verse 21, but notice vs. 10, "If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love, and I John v. 3, "This is the love of God, that we keep His commandments." Then John iii. 23, opens to us the meaning of "This is His commandment, that we should believe on the name of His Son Jesus Christ, and love one another as He gave us commandment."

16. "And I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter, that He may abide with you forever."
The Spirit is not Christ, but a different personality, even another Comforter, and who would never leave them.

17. "The Spirit of Truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth Him not, neither knoweth Him, but ye know Him, for He dwelleth with you and shall be in you."
Because He is a Spirit of Truth and we cannot know Him unless we are truthful.

18. "I will not leave you comfortless, I will come to you."
19. "Yet a little while, and the world seeth Me no more, but ye see Me; because I live yet shall live also."

Observe His other references to this "little while" that He was to be with them in chapters vii, xiii, xxi, xxi, xxi, and then see His reference to another "little while" in xvi. 19. That the present age, during which He is personally absent, as to His visible presence, is but a "little while." See Heb. x. 37, the revised reading of which is, "Yet a very little while, He that shall come will come and will not tarry." He is alive forevermore (Rev. i. 18), and being reconciled by His death, much more shall we be saved by His life (Rom. v. 10). But we long for the time when we shall be with Him and like Him (I John iii. 2, Phil. iii. 20, 21).

20. "At that day ye shall know that I am in My Father, and ye in Me and I in you."

21. "He that loveth My commandments and keepeth them, he is the one that loveth Me, and he that loveth Me shall be loved of My Father, and I will love him and will manifest Myself to him."

This includes verse 15 and indicates how we may know that we love Him. If we love to do His will and take delight in His commandments, if they are more to us than gold or silver, or than even our daily food (I Pet. ex. 22, Job xlii. 12), then we may know, indeed, that we love Him and may expect special manifestations of the Father's love.

22. "Judas saith unto Him, not iscariot, Lord, how is it that Thou wilt manifest Thyself unto us and not unto the world?"
This was Judas the brother of James, the son of Alphaeus, who also wrote the Epistle of Jude (Jude vs. 16, Jude 1).

23. "Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love Me he will keep My words; and My Father will love him, and we will come unto him and make our abode with him."
Here He again enforces the test of our love to Him, as our love to His word. How can one be said to love another even in this world if they love not to hear from each other when absent?

24. "He that loveth Me not keepeth not My sayings, and the word which ye hear is not Mine, but the Father's which seeth and heareth them."

25. "These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you, that when I go, I may prepare a place for you." "Soon He would be absent from them, but they would not long be without Him, for He had said, 'I will come again and receive you unto Myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.'"

26. "If ye love Me keep My commandments."
The questions of Thomas and Philip and the Saviour's replies to them are passed over in the intervening verses, but I trust the teachers will not pass them over. Then John iii. 23, opens to us the meaning of "This is His commandment, that we should believe on the name of His Son Jesus Christ, and love one another as He gave us commandment."

27. "Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you, not as the world giveth give unto you, but as the Father has given unto Me, so I give unto you."
Every true believer in Christ has peace with God, for Christ Himself is our peace, and our standing in Him is unchangeable. See Rom. v. 1, Eph. ii. 14, Heb. xiii. 8. There is the peace of God which will be ours or not just as we stay our minds on Him, and cast all our care on Him, or otherwise (Phil. iv. 7).

28. "Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."
In another place He says, "See that ye be not troubled" (Matt. xxiv. 6). Let us then say, "Behold, God is my salvation, I will trust and not be afraid" (Isa. xli. 3). "I will not fear what flesh can do unto me" (Ps. lvi. 4, 11).

29. "Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you, not as the world giveth give unto you, but as the Father has given unto Me, so I give unto you."

A woman "run-down," overworked, weak, nervous and debilitated—that's a woman that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made for. It gives her health and strength. All woman's weaknesses and all woman's ailments are cured by it. It's a legitimate medicine—not a beverage; it's an invigorating, restorative tonic and a soothing and strengthening nerve, free from alcohol and injurious drugs. It imparts tone and vigor to the whole system.

For all functional irregularities, periodical pains, organic displacements, and uterine diseases, it's a positive remedy.
And a guaranteed one. If it doesn't give satisfaction, in every case, the money paid for it is refunded. No other medicine for women is sold on these terms.

That's because nothing else is "just as good." Perhaps the dealer will offer something that's "better." He means that it's better for him.

The Secret of Success.

FOR COUNCILLOR.
 Vote for W. B. de las Casas of Malden.
 Sixth Councillor District.

MR. WILLIAM B. DE LAS CASAS, the Democratic candidate for Councillor in the 6th District, is one of the young men who have put new blood into the Democratic party in this State. He was born in Malden, where he still lives, in 1857. He inherits his patriotic interest in public affairs from his father, F. B. de las Casas, who was elected from Malden in 1820 for taking part in a revolution to secure constitutional government.

He was educated in the Malden public schools, from which he entered Harvard College in 1875, and graduated in the Class of '79.

He then taught mathematics in a school on the Hudson for two years, and returned for a course at the Harvard Law School, graduating in 1884. After a year in the office of Mr. D. C. Smith, he opened his own office at 40 Water Street, Boston, where he now practices.

In 1882 he became Secretary of the Malden Civil Service Reform Association, and Malden's Representative in the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts State Reform League, and for nine years has been a member of the Harvard Law School, graduating in 1884. After a year in the office of
 Mr. D. C. Smith, he opened his own office
 at 40 Water Street, Boston, where he now practices.

In 1880 Mr. Casas was made Chairman of the Sixth Congressional District Democratic Committee, which managed the campaign of
 Dr. William Everett against Henry Cabot Lodge. The eminent standing of the contestants made the struggle a matter of national interest, and it was largely due to Mr. Casas' tireless energy and exceptional skill, that his party reduced Mr. Lodge's enormous plurality of 5,295 in 1888, to the small one of 1,040, or less than a majority, in 1890.

For the past two years Mr. Casas has been a delegate to the Democratic State Convention, and also Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Malden Democratic City Committee, and it was largely due to his sagacious management of the local campaign that the Democratic Representative was elected to the General Court for the first time in thirty years.

Mr. Casas is a member of the Young Men's Democratic Club, the Tariff Reform League, and other prominent organizations.
 In Malden Mr. Casas is widely known and respected as a man of energy and good judgment, and occupies various positions of trust, among others that of a Trustee of the Malden Hospital and of the City Committee of three in building that important edifice. For this he is especially fitted by his unusually wide experience in building, having in addition to his law practice, with great energy and good judgment developed and built up one of the most beautiful portions of the City of Malden.

He is one of the active, high-minded and clean-hearted young men who do credit to Massachusetts, and his standpoint is one that while entirely Democratic, yet he has the interest of the entire people above any temporary partisan advantage.

 The Ladies Benevolent Society held a very pleasant meeting at the church,
 Thursday afternoon of last week.

The singing school opened on Friday evening of last week with thirty pupils. Mr. Baker of Lowell is the teacher.

Rev. Mr. MacDonald of Andover preached at the church last Sunday,
 Nov. 1, to be observed as "Prisoners Sunday" by an appropriate service and sermon in the morning.

A meeting will be held in the vestry at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. An address will be given by Mr. Aroy, President of the Boston Reform Club. All are cordially invited to attend these services.

OBITUARY.
 It is seldom that the local historian has to chronicle the death of two men so highly respected and well beloved in the community as the two brothers, William H. and Samuel Walker, the latter of whom died Friday evening, Oct. 26, ten months after the death of his brother. Closely interested in life, and devoted to his family, his friends and his community, he was a man of many virtues and a true friend to all who knew him. He was a member of the Baptist Church, and a devoted worker in its ranks. He was also a member of the Woburn Lodge, No. 1, and a member of the Woburn Chapter, No. 1.

He was educated in the Malden public schools, from which he entered Harvard

A Pure Baking Powder.
 A Baking powder that can be depended upon to be free from lime and alum is a desideratum in these days of adulterated food. So far as can be judged from the official reports, the "Royal" seems to be the only one yet found by chemical analysis to be entirely without one of the other of these substances, and absolutely pure. This, it is shown, results from the exclusive use by its manufacturers of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by patent processes which totally remove the tartrate of lime and other impurities. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and it is used in no baking powder except the "Royal" the manufacturers of which control the patents under which it is refined.

Dr. Edward G. Love, formerly analytical chemist for the U. S. Government, who made the analyses for the New York State Board of Health in their investigation of baking powders, and whose intimate knowledge of the ingredients of all those sold in this market enable him to speak authoritatively, says of the purity, wholesomeness and superior quality of the "Royal":

"I find the Royal Baking Powder composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances."

Prof. Love's tests, and the recent official tests by both the United States and Canadian Governments, show the Royal Baking Powder to be superior to all others in strength and leavening power.
 It is not only the most economical in use, but makes the purest, finest-flavored and most wholesome food.

 Albert Frank insured his life in the National Life Insurance Company of Washington, D. C., the 11th day of February, 1891. He cut his knee May 1, and was taken to St. Mary's hospital on Betts street, May 8. Died May 11, leaving a wife and three children. The agents of the companies did everything they could to discourage me, but Mr. Sale and the general agent Mr. Geo. D. French persuaded me to keep the policy and I did so. And I want to thank the National Life Insurance Company of Washington, D. C., and their general agent, Geo. D. French, who came to my house, 70 Conroy street, and paid me the full face of my policy. If I had taken a policy out in the Metropolitan, Prudential or Western and Southern insurance companies I would have received nothing, for the policy was not thirteen weeks old. Yet the agents of these companies would not take a policy that does not insure, and leave a good old company like the National Life, whose policies are in full force at once. I advise all my friends to take policy in the National Life, so that when death comes they are sure of getting their money. Elizabeth Frank, 70 Conroy street.

 methods and plans of the American Society organized in behalf of the movement. Mr. W. F. Durfee, in concluding his account of The Manufacture of Steel, takes the reader among glowing furnaces and the giant arms of powerful machines, and embellishes his description with many pictures. An essay on Ornament among savage tribes is contributed by Prof. Frederic Starr. The question, Do we teach Geology? is asked by Robert T. Hill.
 In Possibilities of Economic Botany, Prof. C. L. Gonsdale describes some of the plants that might be cultivated for food. Mr. Carroll D. Wright, in the second of his Lessons from the Census, points out some serious defects in our mode of enumerating the people, proposes definite measures for its improvement. The making of Reef-knot Nets is described. There is an account by W. G. Benton of The Ethics of Confinement. Mr. Lazar Popoff ascribes the Origin of Painting to a belief of primitive man that he could put spells upon animals through pictures of them.
 There is a sketch of the doings of mountain butterflies, under the title High Life. An account of the career of James Curtis Booth is given with a

Boston Theatres.

BOSTON MUSEUM.
"Lady Jess" opened for a season Monday night in all its splendor. The play is from the pen of Mr. Sydney Grundy, the English play-monger, and he has given the American stage several plays which have created an appetite for more. Mr. Geo. Wilson has a wonderful make-up as a broken-down solicitor who has an indulgence for inciting heresies. Miss O'Leary has the burden of the piece and her admirers were surprised that she carried it so well. Mr. Clarence Holt as the labor reformer acted with nice discretion and good judgment. Mr. Boniface was equal to demands made upon him as an earl. He looked so funny in those whiskers. Miss Fanny Addison a homely but kindly mother was the hit of the piece. Miss Clarke had to do but that was done well. "Lady Jess" will be followed by "Lady Bonifant."

BOSTON THEATRE.
"The Old Homestead" not only draws the people from surrounding towns and cities but extends to New Hampshire where the scene of the play is laid. The old well, the farm house, drawing in the bay by the sea, the large oaks, and the church scenes can only be appreciated by being seen.

GLOBE THEATRE.
Richard Mansfield's annual engagement of a fortnight at the Globe Theatre, commencing next Monday, will introduce his admirable and favorite actor in two of his latest creations not heretofore seen in Boston. His first creation was "The Sign of the Cross," the new tragedy by T. Russell Sullivan of this city, which according to the leading New York critics a month ago is Mansfield's greatest stage creation. The most intellectual, artistic and impressive in conception and portrayal. The cast will include Miss Beatrice Cameron, Miss Emma Sheridan, Messrs. D. H. Harkins, W. F. Fegerson, Frank Lander, William Haworth, W. H. Crompton and the other admirable players so long associated with Mansfield. Second week "Beau Brummel," "A Parisian Romance" and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

PAIR THEATRE.
"Neil Burgess in County Fair," one of the strongest dramatic attractions in Boston for many a day, still holds the boards at this popular theatre and judging from the size of the crowd of spectators who throng there, he holds the hearts of the people also. Aunt Abby and Otis Tucker, though they have been courting fourteen years, seemed as young as of yore. Tim astride of Cold Molasses makes a pretty picture but when he comes in ahead and wins the race the applause is deafening. Aunt Abby is of course delighted to have her farm redeemed from the grasp of a cruel and designing man. The scenic effects are wonderful and the whole production is of such a high character that it has won its way into the hearts of the people.

HOLDS THEATRE.
The Jefferson-Florence engagement this week is proving a treat for the Hollis St. patrons. Tonight and Saturday night "The Heirs at Law" Saturday matinee "The Heirs at Law." Next Monday Clara Morris will begin a week's engagement at the Hollis St. Theatre. "Odette" will be given on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evenings and "Camille" on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday matinee. Clara Morris's company includes J. M. Colville, Howard Convey, George Parks, Walter Kelley, Mittens Willet, Florence Noble, Abeline Barrison and Mary Temmerman. Clara Morris now permits her audience to get out of the theatre at 10:30 when she presents "Odette." This is pleasant to her admirers and it will increase her business here.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.
Oliver Byron in "The Plunger" was greeted by a highly enthusiastic audience and Byron in the leading role was called many times before the footlights. Next Monday night Cora Tanner a great favorite with Boston Theatre goers will present her new play, "Will She Divorce Him?" at the Grand Opera House and full houses are expected to greet her as Mrs. Tanner is well known and she needs no special mention to the public. The play is a decided success and Miss Tanner has won her greatest honors in this piece.

TREMONT THEATRE.
Russell's New Comedians in "The City Directory up to Date" will come to the Tremont on Monday next. It will comprise a list of artists easily first among farcomedy players and as a variety of acts without successful rivals. Russell's New Comedians will receive a royal welcome. Miss Annie Glover, the American dancer, has no equal in grace and finish of her art the world over; Bessie Cleveland, Miss Kate Watt, Maxine Kelen, are firmly established in the public heart. William Jackson are all special favorites here and quite a number are native to Boston and vicinity. As "The City Directory" has always been the funniest play in the world and the new version will more than delight all who attend.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.
"Men and Women" tonight, tomorrow afternoon and evening, to be followed next Monday evening by the stock company specially organized for Boston, and constituting an entirely new band of actors. Their introductory how will be effected in Wilkeson's "Widow," a most amusing piece which has attained undoubted success in New York and elsewhere. The piece will be elaborately staged and Mr. Gilbert will come to Boston to personally superintend the production. The company will include George Drew Barrymore, Mr. Joseph Holland and other metropolitan favorites.

Here at Home.

The Republicans fought nobly. They met the enemy and they were there—as usual. It was a fair, square, stand-up fight, but the Bourbons were too numerous for the Republicans by almost 400. Here are the figures:

WINCHESTER.

The Winchester Historical Society have elected the following permanent officers for the ensuing year:—President J. H. Tyler; Vice Presidents, Rev. J. W. Suter, A. E. Whitney, Abijah Thompson, Salem Wilder, Edmund Sanderson, T. P. Ayer, J. F. Dawlin; Secretary and Treasurer, G. L. Dunham; Historian, G. S. Littlefield; Collector Edmund Sanderson.

The election of Lawyer McCall.

filled the soul of the Star with joy and gladness. No wonder. Lawyer McCall will probably make politics a profession. He has a strong penchant in that direction and what is of vital importance is, he has money enough to gratify his penchant to the fullest extent. The amiable and accomplished spouse of Lawyer McCall has mints of wealth, and she will spend it lavishly no doubt, if necessary, to promote her very talented husband's political ambition. I don't know of another man in Middlesex county so well fixed for taking life easy and getting high up on the political ladder as Lawyer McCall.

Noting the fact that Kansas and Wyoming, the only States where women vote, are the only States where the age of protection for girls is 18, the editor of the Texas White Ribbon, says:

We are not by birth or inclination a woman suffragist, but when we contrast the moral status of these States with others, the conviction is forced upon us that there is something in this.

This is the way we have it in Texas. This bill No.—, by Mr.—, for the better protection of the oyster on our coast.

Your committee having the same under consideration report it back with the recommendation that it do pass.

House bill, 599, by Mr. Rogan, for the better protection of our little girls. Your committee having the same under consideration that it do not pass.

There is no use talking about silent influence and womanly protests; these have been voiced in the many petitions sent up by the women all over our State, but nothing avails but votes.

The Woburn Journal

THE JOURNAL is for sale at the stores of Sparrow Horton, 125 Main Street, Charles R. Brown, 160 Main Street, John Cummings, 24, Cummingsville, Samuel E. Wyman, W. A. Hanson, North Woburn, and at G. P. Brown's Winchester.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

All advertisements, to insure insertion in this paper, must be handed in as early as 10 o'clock on Thursday forenoon.

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

It is printed in this paper. Why should anybody who wishes the city well ask for a better ticket to vote for than the one the Republicans have presented? It is a first class list of men.

EDWARD EVERETT THOMPSON, Esq., is a gentleman worthy of the support of all parties. He belongs to one of the oldest and most highly respected families in Woburn and bears a name that has always contributed largely to honor the town. We need not elaborate—everybody knows EDWARD EVERETT THOMPSON, and nobody knows aught against him. With THOMPSON for their slogan the Republicans are going to win this election "by a large majority."

SURE! With the exception of one or two names the Republican Aldermanic and Council ticket can't be beaten. We feel proud of the list. It is composed of winning names, and with THOMPSON at the head it will go through kiting.

We were surprised that the Republican convention should do so splendidly in choosing candidates for the School Board. WARREN ADAMS has served with distinction on the Boston School Board and is one of the brightest men in Woburn; highly educated, and will beat his opponent high and dry. The selection of Mr. FREDERIC A. FLINT could not have been improved. He is a native Woburnite, proud of his birthplace and residence, proud of his schools and literary institutions, knows what wants to be done and how to do it, and is one of the best nominations that could have been made. The name of Mr. THOMAS D. HEVEY will add strength to the ticket and improve the personnel of the Board.

Look over the names on your ticket, good Republicans, then go to the polls and vote for every one of them.

GO FOR TEMPERANCE.

We feel more concerned for the interests of temperance in the coming charter election than for anything else. The desire of our heart is that the cause may be promoted and advanced by the vote to be cast on that day in favor of public servants who will be its honest supporters.

The influence of the rum-sellers ought to be battled against by temperance ballots and destroyed. Rum-sellers have too much of a swing in the conduct of the affairs of this city. Their unholy influence is allowed too much sway. Their crooked work may be seen by merely lifting the curtain and looking through the opening to the other side of it.

Rum is too potent an agent in our municipal affairs. The fact is shame and a disgrace to our otherwise fair city. This will always be the case however unless the friends of temperance, sobriety and good morals arise in their might and overthrow the monster that is destroying so many of the human race.

Temperance men, put your ballots where they will do the most for the well-being of our city! Vote against Rum!

THE WRONG WAY.

Abuse of Mayor Bean won't elect the other man by any means. There is no worthier citizen of Woburn than he. He is intellectual, moral, bright, and abuse of him is out of order. Nobody knows this better than Mr. Everett Thompson, and no one hears that gentleman abusing Mayor Bean.

It is the influence behind Mayor Bean that the respectable part of this community object to. They are the worst men we have among us. They ought to be shorn of every mite of influence in our municipal affairs, and if the better class of our people would do their duty they would be.

But personal abuse of Mr. Bean will not help his opponents one particle to elect their ticket but, on the contrary, it will injure the Republican cause and may jeopardize the election of Mr. Thompson.

COUNCILOR-ELECT LORING.

C. F. Loring, Esq., of Melrose, who was elected by the Republicans to represent the 5th District in the Governor's Council, has been sorely afflicted with rheumatism ever since election, and so much worse he has grown of late that to save his life he was obliged to have his right leg amputated just below the knee last Monday.

A clot of blood had formed in an artery which produced total paralysis of the limb below it and caused the patient to suffer intense pain in the leg above it. The case is called embolism and is very rarely met with in practice.

It is hoped Mr. Loring will soon find himself on the mending hand.

IN LAWRENCE.

From May 1 to Nov. 1, 1888, under Low License, there were in the city of Lawrence 276 arrests; during the corresponding period in 1891, under High License, there were 1787 arrests.

Rev. Mr. Montgomery, who has recently been collecting the statistics in this branch of the work, says these figures are a little above the average showing of arrests under Low License and High License, and that Woburn's figures, which we give elsewhere, are just about the average.

A GOOD TICKET.

We would be glad to have some one inform us where a better ticket for Mayor and City Council than that nominated by the Republicans can be found. If there is one anywhere the JOURNAL would like to advocate its election.

But up to date we have been unable to find a cleaner, better, or honest ticket than that headed by EDWARD EVERETT THOMPSON, Esq.

GRACIOUS!

The Gipsy Moth has struck Boston Back Bay! His unexpected attack has thrown Boston Swell into confusion, and the Gipsy Moth Commission are about crazy over it.

The Old Harry is to pay in aristocratic Back Bay and no pitch hot!

Politics grow hotter and hotter every day.

It snowed just a little bit last Wednesday.

There was a refreshing rain storm last Monday night.

Yesterday was a charming one. Hope Thanksgiving will be like it.

Mr. Elmore A. Pierce has severed his connection with the City Press.

Susie McIntire lost a finger at Cummings's shoe stock factory last week.

Dr. H. G. Blake has a card in this paper respecting removal. Please read it.

The John Cummings Shoe Company will give a grand ball on Thanksgiving night.

President Harrison's proclamation for Thanksgiving is printed on page 1 of this week's JOURNAL.

Let every well-wisher of his fellowmen cast his vote next election day on the side of temperance.

Mr. Curtis Greenwood had a copy of a N. H. paper in this office yesterday which will use next week.

Crombie, the N. Y. M. Life Insurance Agent is working into the affections of our people like all possessed.

Clerk Bond of the District Court had a fine time up in Vermont lately. He went up there for his annual hunt and had it.

Hon. Horace G. Allen who was nominated last Tuesday by the Republicans for Mayor of Boston used to live in Woburn.

Downey will not be tried, the Prosecuting Attorney of Suffolk county having not pressed the indictment against him.

Miss Maggie B. Russell advises dressmaking rooms in the JOURNAL this week. See what she has to say about it.

Nobody can say but that the Republicans of Ward 1 did well when they chose Wilbur Brown for Aldermanic candidate.

Munroe at 423 Main street is selling overcoats and ulsters at remarkably low figures. They are the best in the market too.

"He Knows," printed on page 1 of the JOURNAL this week, is a beautiful poem, the reading of which may comfort some poor soul.

Young Dr. Hutchings (J. Henry) has a good professional practice in town's neighbors to Woburn. He understands his business.

Well, all we've got to do is to go to work and down Ald. Davis in Ward 1 for he is the bell-weather that has led all the rest of them astray.

In all human probability Mr. William F. Davis, Democratic Aldermanic candidate in Ward 1, will be snowed under on Dec. 1, 1891.

The rum-sellers won't vote for E. E. Thompson for Mayor. They hate him. That is a good recommendation as the JOURNAL asks for.

Mr. Estabrook, the banker, who has been seriously ill for long, is proving slowly, if at all, Mr. and Mrs. Estabrook lost a child on Wednesday.

Chas. MacKinnon's big annual ball and concert will come off tonight, providence permitting. The understanding is, that it is going to be a rouser.

The Republican caucuses were well attended last Monday evening, and fairly enthusiastic. It looks as though they were bound to "make the rifles" this time.

Charlie Buckley keeps one of the neatest, nicest and best patronized fruit stores in this city. Cigars and other choice goods in abundance and cheap too.

The Republican nominations for Aldermen and Councilmen are on the whole very good. There are a few names though that had better been left off the list.

Miss Clarabel Flinn, Chief Clerk in the postoffice, was sick all last week with acute rheumatism and has not yet fully recovered from the effects of the severe attack.

Mallet has just finished up a big supply of street signs and country guide-boards for the city and the same are to be put up in due season. They are mighty neat signs.

The local reporters of the Boston dailies had the good sense to say nothing about the Cummings School scandal. They said its ventilation would not be creditable to our city.

Mr. Jesse Blake of Wakefield, N. H., son of Mr. Simon Blake formerly of Woburn, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. Meloy and family and other friends here this week.

Gregory, the popular auctioneer, is rattling off the clothing, etc., at the Boston Clothing Store every night like blazes. He is one of the most successful auctioneers in the State.

It is reported that the Scandinavians are about to open an evening school in this city. We have quite a large Scandinavian population and the same are becoming more numerous constantly. No foreigners had on our shores more intelligent or better educated than the people from Sweden, Norway, Finland, etc., and none make better citizens. Their scheme for an evening school is worthy of all commendation.

The Democratic caucus in Ward 1 was a rouser—about 200 present. Ald. Davis won by only a half a head, which means that Ald. William F. Davis will be snowed under on Dec. 1, 1891.

Supt. Kimball has got out a fine programme for a Sunday School entertainment at the North Congregational Church at 5.45 next Sunday evening. What is nicer than a good "Chalk Talk?"

We call attention to the coal advertisement of Cummings, Chute & Co., in this paper. They are already doing a big business. Mr. John C. Ropes is C. C. & Co.'s efficient book-keeper.

The boys have got hold of the kind of a whistle this time that will take the top of a man's head off at one fell swoop. For real, right-down, genuine, double-and-twisted ear-piercers they take the cake.

Webster presides over about as nice a stock of dry goods as any of them and does about as good a business. His saleswomen are courteous and ready to do the handsome thing by customers all the time.

All women voters are urged to see that their names are on the voting list, and any who need to register are referred to the dates for registration published in the JOURNAL. Take your receipted tax-bill with you.

Last year the No. Woburn Street Railroad carried 405,663 passengers, and ran 106,534 miles. The East Middlesex Street Railroad (both Woburn roads) carried 1,587,913 passengers, and ran 298,944 miles.

There is not a millinery establishment in this part of Middlesex county that surpasses in extent of stocks, variety of wares, styles, taste in making up, and other essential qualifications that of Mr. Amos Cummings.

There are two prominent candidates for the City Clerkship—Mr. Lawrence Reade and Mr. E. F. Hayward. We have heard a certain other name mentioned, but he probably cannot command support enough to make his candidacy felt.

Mr. Amos Cummings has invested largely recently in advertising and has already begun to get returns from it. Money judiciously spent for printer's ink is sure to pay a good interest. Mr. Cummings so understands it. And he ought to know.

After a warm, sticky, muggy, rainy and altogether disagreeable week the weather cleared away on Tuesday evening and the ground froze pretty hard that night. Some thought the thunder and lightning at the Democratic caucuses had something to do with it.

We received No. 1, Vol. 1, of the Bugle, the journalistic organ of the Woburn High School, one day last week and must confess it struck us as being as neat as a pin and twice as bright. It was admirably printed, held their literary contents, news, etc., were full up to high water mark.

The Celtic Association, a flourishing club of this city, have advertised to hold their 21st annual concert and ball at Lyceum Hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 25—just before Thanksgiving. Calnan's Orchestra will furnish the music, J. B. Thomas, Prompter. The arrangements will be complete.

Miss Maggie Hall, one of Mr. Amos Cummings's bright saleswomen, won the first prize, a very fine secretary or writing-desk, at the Red Men's Fair last week by virtue of being the most popular saleswoman in the city, or the greatest social favorite. She did well and had reason to feel proud of her success.

The Slattery Dramatic Club are preparing an entertainment for next Thanksgiving night and the night following that everybody will want to take in. John M. Harlow, M. D., has been selected to settle the large estate of the late Alfred A. Dow of this city. Previous to his death Mr. Dow especially requested his wife to select Dr. Harlow for the responsible office and she cheerfully promised him to do so, which promise has been carried out. Mr. Dow knew Dr. Harlow intimately, hence his dying request as to the settlement of his estate.

Rev. Hugh Montgomery will preach his annual anti-licensure sermon at the M. E. Church at 10.30 A. M. Sunday. It will probably call out a large congregation. A comparison of the effects of no license, low license, and high license on the work of the Police and Courts in this Commonwealth will be made by Mr. Montgomery and will, no doubt, prove very interesting. "Ye Christian heralds, go proclaim," etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovell of No. 5 Highland st., have been entertaining quality from Newport, N. H., this week. Their guests were Mrs. H. A. Barton and Mrs. J. M. Wilmarth, both daughters of the late General Grant. The former being the "better half" of Mr. H. A. Barton, Editor and Publisher of the Argos at Newport, which we have been told, is a thrifty town and one altogether lovely. All parties enjoyed the visit.

At 7 o'clock in the evening on Sunday, Nov. 22, the Woburn Y. M. C. A. will hold an anniversary meeting at the First Congregational Church under the direction of President Wm. H. Hill. Address will be delivered by Mr. L. J. Gordon of Boston and Mr. Henry McGowan of this city. There will be a union of the various churches at the meeting and the several pastors will participate in the exercises. Sunday, Nov. 22, 1891, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Superintendent Crilly of the Water Works is feeling fine. He informed a JOURNAL man on Monday that Horn Pond is some 7 or 8 inches higher than it was before the rains of the week before, that there is a plenty of water for the present, and enough to meet any conceivable emergency. The Superintendent is kept very busy these times looking after business connected with the city's water supply, and he is glad to report everything as being lovely and in good order.

The announcement that Mr. David F. Moreland has given out that he will support the regular Democratic nomination for Mayor, etc., is entirely untrue. Mr. Moreland is a fine citizen, but he does not think anybody for making it. He is and always has been non-partisan in local elections, and this year, as usual, will support the men who he regards the best fitted for the positions for which they have been nominated. Mr. Moreland appears to be attending more particularly to the duties of City Clerk than to matters connected with city election.

Miss M. L. Bancroft, who is unsurpassed as a teacher of the piano-forte, has more pupils this fall than ever before at the same season of the year. As her superior merits as an instructor become more widely known her classes increase in size, with a corresponding improvement in quality. Miss Bancroft is highly educated, having studied under the best masters in Boston so long that her proficiency is recognized by the ablest instructors and professionalists in that city. She is still a close student and keeps square up with the times, which enables her to give her pupils the best education possible to obtain here or elsewhere.

Last evening The Woburn Workers connected with the First Congregational Church in this city held a sale and gave an entertainment in the lecture room of the meeting-house which was very successful. The proceeds of the sale of articles manufactured by the bright juveniles of which the society is composed was lively and receipts quite satisfactory. While the entertainment by the same small folks was real good. Miss Chamberlain is at the head of The Workers and devotes much time and labor towards the advancement of the interests of the society, the objects of which are noble and well deserve encouragement and material aid from Christian people.

The JOURNAL office bearing everybody's blessings and best wishes for her future happiness.

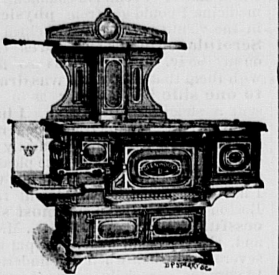

Last Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Eaton of Reading visited this city in company with Mr. Moses Bancroft, the boot and shoe dealer on Main St. and Montvale Ave., and enjoyed very much the ride and sights they saw here. Mr. Eaton is 93 years old, and his venerable spouse 88, and they have been married and lived together in peace and comfort 68 years; last Saturday, Nov. 14, 1891. Reading has a fine old home.

Mr. and Mrs. Eaton have been in the quaint but delightful old town Mr. and Mrs. Eaton have dwelt together in love and unity, as man and wife, almost as many years as were allotted to the life of man in Bible times, and much longer than the present average of man's earthly sojourn. Only one person who was present at their wedding 68 years ago besides themselves is now alive, although a goodly company were there. They enjoyed their visit to Woburn and the calls of our citizens last Saturday and Mr. Bancroft enjoyed it equally as well. May the venerable Mr. and Mrs. Eaton live to celebrate their Diamond Wedding.

Fire seems to have taken a notion to the Central House lately.

Mrs. Dietrick's Lecture.
Mrs. Ellen B. Dietrick of Boston lectured before the Woburn Women's Club on Friday afternoon last on "The Women of Africa."

Her paper was crowded with interesting facts and novel anecdotes of the life of women in the "Dark Continent." With some surprise and no little chagrin we learned that these savages have more reverence for women's intellectual power and more respect for her judgment than has many a college professor in England and America. Mrs. Dietrick gave many historical facts of Egypt and Ethiopia.

Takla, the various tribes of Africa, she dwelt upon their government, education, social life, the position of woman, and man's submission. Some striking facts related were: that originally in Africa the wife was the husband's equal and his legal superior; that marriage was not a sacred bond, but a mere contract, and that the woman of civil rights; that both sexes practise medicine, and that to Queen Isis is due the honor of founding medicine, and the leading by prayer; and who is credited with giving the first laws to mankind. In ancient Egypt sons and daughters inherited alike.

In north-western Africa live the Berbers.
The Berber mother gives her family name to her children and the estates descend through the female line; and the Berber women are admitted to public council.
In barbarous Africa the women are famous as generals and soldiers. They are powerful, beautiful, and almost insensible to fatigue whom one would rather read of than encounter. There are also orders of priestesses as well as warriors.

In several African states women are prominent as manufacturers, artisans, merchants and politicians, and in Abyssinia the women never sew, knit, or do the family washing—these duties are left to the men. African society has its "buddies," and the life of those devoted to the work of conventionality similar to that of our own gay cities.

A dusky "bad" smiles forth in best lib and tucker decked with her husband's in African smiles, and pays her husband of visits to her in her own set and she does not fail to study the men which are in her own good time, to select a husband.

We were told that justice to women is the rule throughout Africa. If the injustice to men must also be the rule; for in Sheshe the women grab all their husband's possessions and the unhappy man finds a divorce is not practicable even if desirable.

BOSTON MUSEUM.
"A Sailor's Knot" at the Boston Museum.
Mr. Field has designated Monday, Nov. 20, for what is termed "The event of the Season" at the Boston Museum, namely: the first production in this country of Pettit's great drama, "A Sailor's Knot," now running with extraordinary success at the Drury Lane Theatre, London. The production will be a most elaborate one in every respect—splendid new scenery, astonishing mechanical effects, unique costumes of the period, (1812), and a superb cast. While Mr. Field's company is famous for its efforts in a wide and varied range of plays, it has been piecemeal successful, whenever called upon to interpret the best class of melodrama, always, by the way, a very popular form of entertainment with its intelligent patrons of which our readers own such a goodly number. In illustration of this, it will be remembered that "Harbor Lights" ran 12 weeks, (most recently) "Hands Across the Sea" 17 weeks, and "Bells of Haverhill" 14 weeks. This very record will be beaten by "A Sailor's Knot," which is said to be Mr. Pettit's best work.

North Woburn.
The Republicans of this Ward do not feel any too kindly towards True for supporting Bond for Alderman.
The idea of the Chairman of the Ward and City Committee working for the election of a Democratic Alderman!

Who ever heard of such a thing before?
Dearborn will be elected although he is almost the last man the Republicans would have selected had they not been forced into it by the presence of True in the caucus.

There isn't much doubt but that Dearborn will be re-elected Alderman from this Ward, not that the voters like him less but they dislike True more. It was a choice of evils and the Republicans concluded to choose the least.

Dearborn don't represent the intelligence and political integrity nor the best social element in this village, neither would True if he had been nominated. But the Republicans were forced to take one or the other and so they took Dearborn, although not a pleasant pill to swallow by any means.
But he will be elected, because a scalawag crowd are in the majority, and the people of this Ward of Woburn want no scalawags in theirs. Thompson will get a big vote up here.

PROBATE COURT.

To the next of Kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of Alfred A. Dow, late of Woburn in said County of Middlesex, deceased, I, GEORGE F. BEAN, Mayor of the City of Woburn, do hereby give notice that a letter of administration has been granted to said Mayor, and that he is now in possession of the estate of said deceased, and that all persons having claims against said estate are called upon to present them to said Mayor, at his office, in said City, on or before the 1st day of January next, at nine o'clock before noon, to show cause, if any have, against granting the same.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Woburn Journal, printed at Woburn, the last publication to be two days at least, before said Court.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the third Tuesday of December

CHRIST BEFORE PILATE.

LESSON IX, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, NOV. 29.

Text of the Lesson, John xiv, 1-18—Com. Matt. xxvi, 1-7—Golden Text, Rom. ix, 25—Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Compiled from Lesson Helper Quarterly by permission of H. S. Hoffman, publisher, Philadelphia.)

1. "Then Pilate therefore took Jesus and scourged him."
 2. "And the soldiers platted a crown of thorns and put it on his head, and they put on him a purple robe, and said, Hail, King of the Jews!"
 3. "Pilate therefore went forth again and saith unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know that I find no fault in him."
 4. "His second testimony to the innocence of Jesus (see his third in verse 6). Compare the testimonies to His innocence and holiness given by Judas, Pilate's wife, the chief on the cross, and the Roman centurion (Matt. xxvii, 4, 19; Luke xxiii, 47). He was indeed a lamb without blemish and without spot, holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners (1 Pet. i, 19, 22, 23)."

5. "Then came Jesus forth, wearing the crown of thorns, and the purple robe. And Pilate saith unto them, Behold the man."
 6. "Concerning the first king over Israel we are told that when Samuel saw Saul the Lord said unto him, 'Behold the man' (1 Sam. ix, 17). Saul, however, was a great sinner in the eyes of the Lord, and was written in the book of the living, but he was not the man whom the Lord desired. The Jews recognized him as the man whom the Lord desired, and he was the man whom the Lord desired to be king over Israel. He was the man whom the Lord desired to be king over Israel, and he was the man whom the Lord desired to be king over Israel."

7. "The Jews answered Him, We have a law, and by that law we ought to die, because He made Himself the Son of God."
 8. "Their accusations were that He said God was His Father, making Himself equal with God, and that He being a man made Himself God (chapter v, 18; x, 33). His works had clearly proved that He was what He said He was, for He had given life to the dead, and He had cleansed the leper, and He had opened the eyes of the blind, and He had raised the dead. He had called attention to these things, saying, 'The works which the Father hath given me, that the world may know that I am the Father's Son, and that the Father hath sent Me' (chapter v, 36)."

9. "When Pilate therefore heard that saying he was the more afraid."
 10. "And went again into the judgment hall and saith unto Jesus, Whence art thou? But Jesus gave him no answer."
 11. "Jesus knew when to speak, and just what to say, and when to be silent. He was a true believer in Christ is in us, why then should we not know just when to speak and when to be silent?"

12. "Then saith Pilate unto him, Speak thou shalt not unto me? Knowest thou that I have power to crucify thee, and have power to release thee?"
 13. "So it seemed to Pilate, but he like other rulers of whom we read in Scripture knew not that 'The Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and he will be exalted over all' (Dan. iv, 17)."

14. "Jesus answered, Thou couldst have no power at all against Me, except it were given thee from above; therefore he that delivered Me unto thee hath the greater sin."
 15. "Even the devil could not lay a finger on Job, the servant of God, without God's permission (Job i, 12, 13, 19). How much less could Pilate touch the Son of God without permission from God. But permission from God does not lessen the guilt of the sinner."

16. "And from thenceforth Pilate sought to release him; but the Jews cried out, saying, If thou let this man go thou art not Caesar's friend; whosoever maketh himself a king speaketh against Caesar."
 17. "Pilate knew him to be innocent and had three times testified to that fact; he had just acknowledged to Jesus that he had power to release him; he knew that that was the right thing to do, and yet he hesitates to do it. He cannot say a good word in favor of the man who is innocent."

18. "When Pilate therefore heard that saying he brought Jesus forth and sat down on the judgment seat, and placed before him the man who was called the Pavement, but in the Hebrew, Gabbatha."
 19. "Pilate decided to continue Caesar's friend at all costs, however much he would like to be a friend of Jesus, and he sits on the judgment seat as Caesar's representative. We are now to see how the word was decided in reference to the Christ of God."

20. "And it was the preparation of the passover and about the sixth hour, and he saith unto the chief priests, Behold your king."
 21. "In verse 5 it is 'Behold the man'—Son of Man, Son of God, King of the Jews. It is all true. It should be seen now ere long, and the passer shall have his complete fulfillment in the kingdom of God (Luke xxi, 15, 16) when He shall come, no longer in humility, but in the power of the Son of God, and He shall be crowned with the crown of power and victory, accompanied by all the armies of heaven (Rev. xxi, 1-3)."

22. "But they cried out, Away with him! Away with him! Crucify him! Pilate saith unto them, Shall I crucify your king? The chief priests answered, We have no king but Caesar."
 23. "Contrast Ps. lxxxix, 18, 'The Lord is our defense, and the Holy One of Israel is our King.' But, as it was in Samuel's day when they rejected God as their king (1 Sam. viii, 7), so now they rejected God manifest in the flesh, the Son of David, Son of Abraham, Son of Man, Son of God, and they have been reaping the fruits of their choice from that day to this. May our hearts truly say as we by faith look upon Jesus, 'My King and My God,' and let us add, 'Thy servants are ready to do whatsoever thou shalt command us to do, and we will never forsake thee, O King of the Jews!'"

24. "Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. And they took Jesus and led him away."
 25. "The voices of the chief priests prevailed, a robber and murderer was set free and the Jews chose Caesar instead of the Son of God. And to this day our Lord is still rejected and by the world disowned, by the many still rejected and by the few still thrown. He is ever before us for rejection or rejection, and many times a day we must decide for Him or against Him. Let us always say 'We have no king but Jesus.'"

26. "The Child-Queen that rules Holland, while receiving a foreign minister recently, held her favorite doll in her arms and at length mischievously observed: 'I wonder that you are not afraid to come near me; all my dolls have had measles, you know.'"

27. "An old physician, retired from practice, having placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for speed and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure of Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 820 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y."

SECRETS OUT OF SCHOOL.

Fortunate Detroit Girls Tell One Another How the Question Was "Popped."

These came, a darling little note the other day in the morning mail—pink, blue paper, lined with pink, a crested seal and a delicious odor of sweet violets, and papa laughed at me because I kissed the sweet thing before I opened it. And what do you think it was? An invitation to a party given for engaged girls. Did you ever hear of anything so stupid? And not a man invited until at the eleventh hour, when each girl's lover was to come and escort her home.

Oh, it makes me feel silly just to think of it. We all wore our gowns and didn't fix up at all. What was the use when there wasn't any one to see us. And we spent the whole afternoon trying on each other's rings and—yes, it is true—rehearsing the marriage ceremony. And we made so much noise you couldn't have heard a tower fall.

"It's an awful solemn thing to get married," said Ally Burns. She had a tidy on her head for a bridal veil.

"Indeed, it's a deal more solemn, as somebody said, not to get married," chimed in Kate Lynde, who wore a piano cover as a train.

"What did Dolph say when he popped the question, Livy?" asked that pert Blanche Howell.

"You should ask him," I said softly. "Oh, come off," cried out that slippy Maud. "Why, when Charles asked me he knelt on the lace throne of my best party dress and ruined it. He wouldn't get up till I said yes."

"George never popped to me," said our hostess, Vile Smythe. "We were out sleigh riding with a party and he put his hands in my muffler. So did Leon Barclay, who was on the other side. Then these two grabbed each other's hand, and George said, 'Give me this little hand' in my right ear, and Lem said, 'May I ask for this dear hand' in my left ear."

"And what did you do?"

"I said, 'Gentlemen, you cannot marry each other,' but when I held up my hands, which were under my cloak, I thought they would kill each other. Then I slipped my hand into the muff on George's side, and Lem jumped out and walked home."

"I caught Harold unawares. You know what a bashful goose he is," said Kate Lynde. "One evening he was at our house and all the folks were there and he hadn't spoken for an hour. There was an awful silence, when he said in what he meant for a whisper that he would marry me. I said, 'I propose'—and before he could say another word I said, 'It's a go; I accept,' and there were congratulations. He said he was trying to propose a moonlight stroll. But they need a little encouragement."—Detroit Free Press.

29. "Pilate knew him to be innocent and had three times testified to that fact; he had just acknowledged to Jesus that he had power to release him; he knew that that was the right thing to do, and yet he hesitates to do it. He cannot say a good word in favor of the man who is innocent."

It goes back all the money you've spent for it—if there's neither benefit nor cure. That's what ought to be said of every medicine. It would be—if the medicine were good enough. But it is said of only one in 10,000 of its kind—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's the guaranteed blood-purifier. Not only in March, April and May, when the sarsaparilla claim to do good, but in every season and in every case it cures all diseases arising from a torpid liver or from impure blood. For all Scrofulous, Skin and Scalp Diseases, Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Biliousness, it is a positive remedy.

MILLIONS IN BARBED WIRE.

The Humble Way in Which Inventor Ellwood Won His Great Fortune.

The saddest thing I saw in a journey to the west was the abandoned rail line in Pennsylvania, Ohio, eastern Indiana and southern Michigan. How cruel of fate not to have permitted the wire fence to be invented 200 years before it was! Probably enough labor and timber have been wasted in the building of the old "worm" fences in the past to pay off fifty national debts like ours.

It makes one almost weep to think of the backs that have been broken, of the hands worn out, the energies sapped, the boys kept from school—in felling trees, splitting logs, driving posts, laying rails for those thousands of miles of rail fence! When our western farmer wants a fence now he buys a few posts and a lot of barbed wire. Three men can put up half a mile of fence in a day.

"Did you ever hear how Ellwood, the barbed wire man, of DeKalb, Ill., made his money?"

"Yes," said one of the men with me. "I was acquainted with him. Well, you see, twelve or fifteen years ago he was making a little wire in his blacksmith shop, putting the barbs on with a pair of pinchers. One day a couple of young men stopped in his shop to get out of the rain, and he showed them the wire he was making. They looked at it and said it was a good thing. Ellwood told them that he would sell it to them for a dollar a hundred feet. They took it and went home. The next day they came back and said they had sold it for five dollars. Ellwood was so pleased that he decided to make it a business. He bought a few more posts and a lot of barbed wire. Three men can put up half a mile of fence in a day."

"How are you finding business, doctor?" was asked of a physician.

"Capital," he replied. "I have all I can attend to."

"I didn't understand that there was very much sickness about here."

"No, there isn't. But we physicians do not depend upon sickness as an income. Oh, no; most of our money is made from people who have nothing the matter with them."—London Tit-Bits.

How a Doctor Lives.

Although in later life Napoleon was a voracious of the ship smoke, he was never known to attempt smoking but once. The Persian ambassador having presented him with a magnificent oriental pipe, he wished to give it a trial. After being instructed how to proceed, he desired his attendant, Constant, to light it. It was accordingly properly charged and lighted. We will let Constant tell the rest of the tale: "I obeyed, and returned it to him. But scarcely had he drawn a mouthful, when the smoke, which he did not know how to expel from his mouth, turned back by his palate, penetrated into his throat and came out by his nose, nearly blinding him. As soon as he recovered breath he exclaimed: 'Take that away—what an abomination! The brutes! My stomach is quite upset.' In fact, he was so annoyed for more than an hour that he renounced forever the desire to try the experiment again."—National Review.

A Singular Horse.

A funny story is told of Dean Swift, who was a witty man and fond of a joke at the expense of other people, as most witty people are. One very cold night when he was traveling he stopped at a little inn. There was only one fire in the house, and the guests of the inn crowded about it left no place for the new-comer.

With a solemn face Dean Swift called to the hostler and told him to get a peck of oysters immediately and take them out to his horse.

"Will your horse eat oysters, sir?" asked the astonished man.

"Just take them out and see," said the horse's master.

The people around the fire stared at the man who owned this curious horse, and nearly every one of them left his seat and went out to see the remarkable horse eating oysters.

Then the cunning dean made himself comfortable in the warmest corner, and ordered his supper.

Presently back came the hostler with the disappointed crowd after him. "He won't touch them, sir," cried the hostler.

The dean took the foolish animal all the oats he can eat," replied Dean Swift. "You can bring the oysters here. I'll eat them for supper myself."—Harper's Young People.

Orientalists in London.

Socially considered, orientals in London include only two classes, at opposite ends of the scale. They are either quite inferior or quite superior—either of Lincolne or Whitehall. Between these is nothing. The former class consists almost exclusively of seafaring men. Their headquarters are the Strangers' home in West India Dock road, and the history of that institution is practically the history of the poor oriental colony during the last forty years.

It is often said, and commonly believed, that there is a regular Asiatic—and particularly Chinese—quarter in east London, something like that of which we hear so much at San Francisco, only on a smaller scale, and a good many years ago there was some foundation for the belief.

The Royal Sovereign in Bluegate fields was a recognized rendezvous of Asiatic seamen, and in the neighborhood were a good many low lodging houses kept and frequented by Chinese, Lascars, Malays and Japanese. But the opening of the Strangers' home put an end to this. As the Chinese tended to be of this unsavory sort, the customers gradually deserted the lodging houses in favor of the home, and they were eventually shut up.—St. James Budget.

INDIAN CHILDREN.

For many years I have watched a fine and varied assortment of notions in regard to family life among Indians. I was not in the least responsible for these views, but absorbed them by contact with people who should have known better than to retail such foolishness. Now, after a very brief experience with real life among these people, I am obliged to remodel some of my opinions. For instance, I have heard it said that Indian parents never punish their children. That is nonsense. I have witnessed some very vigorous and well directed discipline, and am prepared to assert that family discipline among Indians is fairly well maintained.

I have also heard it said that Indian children are such little stoics that they never cry when hurt or lashed when disobedient. I cannot detect a particle of difference in the behavior of white and red children. The little Indians cry when hurt or disappointed or frightened, or laugh when pleased precisely as any Hartford child would laugh or cry. Moreover, like Hartford children, they delight in playing pranks on one another, and I regret to say, on their elders as well. For example, I was one day quietly talking with an Indian mother (not an Omaha, by the way), and failed to notice that the ten-year-old son and heir of the house of the lady was creeping up behind me. Accidentally discovering his misdeed, I took the slate from him and nearly went into fits of laughter when I saw his very funny caricature of my venerable self. It was true to the life, and even though I am old, I would have recognized the likeness, but every feature was so comically exaggerated that it was one of the funniest things I have ever seen.

I felt that the prank called for a reprisal, but it was difficult to administer it. For truly, I was so possessed with the child's cleverness that my impulse was to hug rather than scold him. However, duty clearly pointed out the necessity for admonition. So, pulling myself together, I made my little speech, and really did my best to impress him with a sense of his impudence.

Did I succeed? Bless you, no! On the contrary, after looking me squarely in the eye while I was talking, and probably discovering a gross discrepancy between my words and the expression of my face, he said: "White lady, you are very angry, but you had better not. White lady like me. She no keep sorry, no mad. Tom know." And then with a chuckle the clever little fellow turned a double somersault and disappeared in the brush, adding insult to injury by fleeing so expeditiously that he did not even snap my kodak at him.—Omaha Cor. Hartford Courant.

A Poor Smoker.

Although in later life Napoleon was a voracious of the ship smoke, he was never known to attempt smoking but once. The Persian ambassador having presented him with a magnificent oriental pipe, he wished to give it a trial. After being instructed how to proceed, he desired his attendant, Constant, to light it. It was accordingly properly charged and lighted. We will let Constant tell the rest of the tale: "I obeyed, and returned it to him. But scarcely had he drawn a mouthful, when the smoke, which he did not know how to expel from his mouth, turned back by his palate, penetrated into his throat and came out by his nose, nearly blinding him. As soon as he recovered breath he exclaimed: 'Take that away—what an abomination! The brutes! My stomach is quite upset.' In fact, he was so annoyed for more than an hour that he renounced forever the desire to try the experiment again."—National Review.

Wales Visit to Yorkshire.

The Prince of Wales and a friend, going for a stroll one morning at the turning of a lane came across a miner who had with him a brace of bull terrier pups. Wishing to appear sociable, the prince's companion asked the man how much he was paid for the pups. "Two quid," replied the miner, with the Yorkshire brevity. The Prince of Wales examined the dogs critically for a few moments, and then, moved perhaps by a sense of duty toward a future subject, remarked in a mildly apologetic tone: "Don't you think two pigs would have been a better investment, my friend?" "Maybe," replied the coalifer; "but, mister, what a blooming fool a chap would look going a-rattling with pigs." The argument was irresistible, and the prince, with his friend, retired uncomplained.—New York Recorder.

The Punishment Too Severe.

Hammerer—I'll have to get a new piano. My old one is all worn out. The action is too uneven.

Head—The action! What's that? Hammerer—I mean some of the keys go down too hard and some too easy. I became accustomed to it, and when I play on a new piano in some one else's house I hit some keys too hard and others not hard enough. Understand!

Head—I see. Hammerer—Well, the unexpected sounds startle me so that I forget the notes and get thrown out.

Head—Well, I think that's pretty rough. They might tell you to stop, or hit you with a chair leg or something, but I don't think they ought to throw you out.—New York Weekly.

Col. J. Henry Sellman, Collector of Internal Revenue, Baltimore, Md., believes in the use of rheumatism. He writes: I have tried Salvo Ointment, and believe it to be a good remedy for rheumatism.

Don't place all your confidence in one friend. He may run off with it, and then you would not have any confidence to put in anybody else.

A Man's Heart in Middle Life.

The differences in the structure of the arteries, even though they cannot be carried so far as to denote disease, make the man of fifty years much more vulnerable than the young man, and vulnerable in precisely the organ most essential to life. It is in fact the heart that suffers in case of forced exertion.

The elderly man should therefore give up all exercises of speed like running and all those in which energetic efforts are added to speed like rowing in matches. We see men of exceptional powers of resistance continuing to practice exercises of speed till they are forty-five years old; but it is well to know how indulgence in championship sports late in life usually ends. Many affections of the heart are consequences of exercises or labors that exaggerate the effort of that organ in men who have reached maturity.

The central organ of the circulation cannot be subjected without danger to excessive work when its play is not seconded by the elastic force of an unimpaired arterial system, when it is deprived of the reinforcement which is lent by the blood in the circulation, the office of which in the circulation of the blood has been happily described by giving them as a whole the name of the "periphere heart."—Popular Science Monthly.

The Effect of Narcotics.

When Dr. Thomson was bishop of Gloucester he was occasionally a sufferer from toothache, and resorted, by medical advice, to narcotics to relieve the pain. One morning, after a night of great suffering, he left the house to consult the doctor, Mrs. Thomson, treating him not to allow the latter to prescribe a narcotic, as it affected his brain for some hours afterwards. On his way the bishop met the postman, who handed him a large official envelope.

He opened it in the street and read, to his surprise and gratification, his appointment to the see of York. He hastened back to communicate to his wife the exciting news. "Zoe, Zoe," he exclaimed, "what do you think has happened? I am Archbishop of York!" "There, there!" she rejoined, "what did I tell you? You've been taking that horrid narcotic again and are quite out of your head."—North American Review.

A Paper Marriage.

Dr. L. B. Clifton, a Macon scientist, has detected a peculiar parasite, which infects our paper money. It is found nowhere else, and though it is invisible to the unassisted eye the small creature multiplies at a surprising rate and is very numerous. Dr. Clifton counted 3,000 of them on an old five dollar bill. He said the money parasite is an acarus and closely related to the spider family. Its appearance is by no means handsome. In shape it is oblong and flat, and has four clumsy legs and a sharp bill. It is never known to leave the paper on which it lives and never becomes a parasite on the human body.—Paper Trade.

Amateurs Everywhere.

We may say that an amateur, armed with a telescope, is to be found at every point on our planet, ready to observe a celestial phenomenon. In Chili, Honduras, Peru, New Zealand, Tunisia and Tasmania we can meet astronomical amateurs provided with instruments, who devote their night hours to contemplating the beauties of the starry vault and to collecting observations which shall be useful for the advancement of science. FRIDAY, DEC. 4, 1891.

THE JOURNAL is for sale at the stores of Sparrow Horton, 105 Main Street, Charles R. Brown, 146 Main Street, John Cummings, 24, Cunninghamville, Samuel E. Wyman, W. A. Hanson, North Woburn, and at G. P. Brown's, Winchester.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

All Advertisements, to insure insertion in this paper, must be handed in as early as 10 o'clock on Thursday forenoon.

THE ELECTION.

The city election held last Tuesday was one of the best in recent years not only for its immediate effects but on account of its bearing on the future of our city.

The contest was not between Messrs. Thompson and Bean but all but between at least 600 members of the Democratic party who had become sick and tired of being nosed around by bosses and that share of the Republican party pledged to clean municipal government, and the two elements, pulling strongly and cordially together, carried the election in favor of the right.

Mayor Bean lost a re-election not on personal grounds, for there is not a brighter, cleaner, worthier young man in Woburn than he is, but solely for the reason that he was the standard-bearer of a political element that a majority of the Democracy and nearly all the Republicans were determined to down. This combination carried their point. It was not Mr. Bean but his unfortunate position and following that snowed him under.

The 600 young Democrats had no particular love for Mr. Thompson or sympathy with his principles; but they were determined to overthrow a very obnoxious kind of bossism and so they cheerfully joined hands with the Republicans, as they would have with Prohibitionists if necessary, and the trick was accomplished.

Neither Rum nor anti-Rum cut any figure in the contest. It was simply a revolt on the part of "Young Democracy" against the arrogance and intolerance of mossback Bossism, generously aided and assisted by nearly all of the Republican party.

THE YOUNG DEMOCRACY.

Democratic bossism is played out in this city and the bosses are getting a good ready to permanently retire from business. Their reign has been long, arbitrary and grinding to the young Democratic spirit. They have been arrogant and tyrannical. By being more so this year than ever before they sealed their political fate. They were handsomely and everlastingly swamped!

Young Democracy did it! They made up their minds not to stand being ruled over, trod upon, and ground into dust and ashes by a few domineering old mossbacks any longer, and so they went to work and smashed the rule of the self-constituted rulers, and smashed it for good and all.

They were a brave lot of young men, and they did themselves a great deal of credit by unshoring the old bosses last Tuesday and burying them beyond the hope of a resurrection.

LOCAL NEWS.

Job Work.
Job printing is done as neatly, as promptly, and at as low prices, at the JOURNAL office as at any establishment in Middlesex County. Entire satisfaction in quality of work and prices guaranteed.—W.

—Chronothanator!
The fire-alarm is all out of joint. Why is this?

—Two Marriages will appear in these columns in due season.

—Democratic "Bossism" is played out in this city. So say the boys.

—There is a Republican majority in both branches of the City Council.

—They say Mayor Bean didn't appear to be greatly cast down over the election.

—"Jake" Ham is a lucky gentleman. He hardly ever gets left when running for office.

—The Ward officers got through counting the vote in real good season last Tuesday evening.

—Mr. Wilbur Brown "got there with both feet." It takes the State of Maine-ers to make connections.

—The office-holders in Municipal Building were perfectly neutral and held their tongues last Tuesday.

—The Executive Board of the Woburn Mutual Benefit Association will hold a meeting this evening.

—If the "Young Democrats" didn't make their influence felt at the election last Tuesday then nobody ever did.

—Mr. Michael J. Meagher, Democratic candidate for Councilman in Ward 3, "made the rifle" in fine style.

—"Tom" Kenney (Dem.) put in the biggest kind of licks and heaps of them for Thompson for Mayor last Tuesday.

—Mr. Walter Wyman, although not so well and robust as he used to be, went to the polls on Tuesday and deposited his ballot.

Chronothanator!

—The Boston Branch proprietors are selling the finest of butter, warranted every time, cheaper than it can be bought in Boston.

—Ex-Ald. William C. Kenney got his revenge last Tuesday. There wasn't a happier man in Woburn than he was on Wednesday morning.

—It was much milder on Tuesday than on the preceding day. It would have been difficult to have furnished a better day for election.

—Candidate Finn of Ward 3 will wait another time for the official returns before he celebrates his election to the Aldermanic Board.

—Our old friend Rev. D. D. Winn continues to act as Hymen's right-hand man here in Woburn albeit he is a denizen of Jamaica Plain.

—Not less than 600 Democrats (Young Democracy) voted for Thompson for Mayor. Do the Bosses read the handwriting on the wall?

—The hacks were out early last Tuesday morning and sick, infirm, lazy and indifferent voters were given a pleasant morning drive to the polls.

—In the Christmas (December) number of WIDE AWAKE is published a pretty poem by Hannah R. Hudson of this city entitled "For Santa Claus."

—For a week past the weather has strongly resembled that of "Indian Summer"—the most charming of New England's delightful seasons of the year.

—A. W. Dalziel is building a large barn for William Tidd & Co. of Stoneham. He has just finished a big one for Byron & Sons of Mercersburg, Md.

—Couldn't have been much bad blood between Thompson and Bean, as they are both active members of the First Congregational church in this city.

—James McDonald is the most skillful and reliable piano-tuner in this part of the country. His prices are very fair, and besides that, he's a gentleman.

—Dr. Conway's countenance has been wreathed in the sweetest of smiles ever since 10 p. m. Dec. 1. It means another year of City Physician for him.

—Mr. W. F. Kenney was re-elected member of the School Board at the late city election. He will probably continue to occupy the chair another year.

—Our old and esteemed friend Mr. John Maxwell, who returned from Fort Payne and about there recently, says it is mighty dull in that section of country.

—Mr. John Duncan, Jr., will occupy the Boston Clothing Company's store next to Lovell's after it has been thoroughly repaired and put into usable condition.

—Mr. C. M. Munroe's display windows, counters, show-cases and shelves look just as though Christmas was close at hand. He has beautiful holiday goods.

—Didn't the JOURNAL say that Mr. W. F. Davis Democratic Aldermanic candidate in Ward 1, would get snowed under? Who says the JOURNAL isn't a true prophet?

—Mr. Alexander Ellis, proprietor of the Railroad store, and members of his family, and Miss Hattie Kenney, returned from a trip to New York and Philadelphia late last Monday evening.

—The Somerville Citizen says that "the address of Rev. Hugh Montgomery in the First Methodist church last Sunday evening was a rouser." The Citizen printed the address entire.

—Cutter of Ward 6, Republican nominee for re-election to the Common Council, came through the contest with large plurality winning. Somewhat new paper men hardly ever fail to get there.

—Capt. J. Henry Symonds, editor and proprietor of the Citizen in that city, came on from New York to spend Thanksgiving Day here and attended the First Congregational church last Sunday.

—The sale of the Dr. Hutchings property corner of Mann Court and Main Street was made by Auctioneer Gregory to Chas. E. Smith for $3,500. Gregory says Smith got a good bargain.

—As an array of talent has been engaged for the concert at the Unitarian church this evening as Boston affords. It will be worth a good deal more to the admission fee to hear Kate Ryan read.

—Dr. Graves was not on the Woburn train that was run by the Montreal Express at Winchester on the evening of the 25th ult., all reports in the Boston papers to the contrary notwithstanding.

—A train ran into the team of J. Edgar Boutwell at the North Woburn crossing quite late last Monday evening and stove the wagon all to flinders while its motive power could nowhere be found by the train hands.

—Last Sunday was quite like winter; during the night it was still more so; and at 6 a. m. on Monday it was from 1 to 10 degrees above zero according to location of thermometers and veracity of their owners.

—Christmas will reach here in three weeks from today, that is to say, on Friday, Dec. 25, 1891. It is highly probable that Santa Claus is already getting things ready for his Christmas visits among the children of the land.

—Abajona Conolly, U. O. P. F., to the number of 200 sat out to a splendid banquet at G. A. H. Hall, Savings Bank Block, last Wednesday evening and did full justice to the subject. A pleasant evening was spent.

—At the bit of a love-feast which the Republicans held on election night Mayor-elect Thompson made one of the prettiest speeches of the season. Senator Wier led off with eloquent congratulations, and others filled up the chinks.

—Supt. Critley of the Water Works is getting things snug in hand for winter when the extension of the system is naturally obliged to slow up for two or three months. He will be able to give a good report of his operations during the year past.

—The latest news received at this office respecting the whereabouts of Mr. Samuel H. Leathie of St. Louis located him in Florida where it appears his cup of pleasure was filled to the brim. "Money makes the mare go," saith the poet.

—We hope the Democratic City Committee will elect Mr. John P. Delaney their Treasurer next year again. He is the promptest financial agent of a political organization we ever met. Brother John P. deserved to win last Tuesday. But such is life!

—The Equal Suffrage League will hold its next regular meeting Monday evening, Dec. 7, in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. Each member is asked to respond to the roll call with a quotation from some eminent writer regarding the political status of women.

—Lovers of the elocutionary art and dramatic acting of a high order of merit will not fail to attend the musical and literary entertainment at the Unitarian church to-night and hear and see Kate Ryan of the Boston Museum Company. She is an old favorite of the public and a mistress in the dramatic profession.

—What do the readers of the JOURNAL think of our prophetic gifts? Do you remember the figures we gave last week on the Mayoralty vote? Come pretty close to it, eh? When anybody wants the correct figures beforehand all he has got to do is to come to the JOURNAL office and ask for them.

—There is to be a Sale and Supper at the Unitarian Chapel in North Woburn next Wednesday evening. It looks now as though it might be a very pleasant affair. Ample and handy street car accommodations have been provided for the Centre people, a large number of whom will probably attend.

—Lasell Seminary, Auburndale, Mass., continues to offer, as it has for some years, two prizes for entrance examinations: $400 for the best and $300 for the second best paper for the Freshman class. A special examination is given those competing for these prizes. The Battalion (voluntary) has a larger membership this year than ever.

—Relief Corps No. 84 advertise a concert to be given on next Friday evening, Dec. 11, in G. A. R. Hall, Post 33, by the Bacon Trio of Boston and other vocalists which will be worth attending. A novel feature of the affair will be a "C Tea" from 6 to 8 p. m. The ladies have spared no pains to make this an occasion long to be remembered.

—The Unitarian social and dance given on last Wednesday evening fully met the expectations of the most sanguine. About 150 couples were present on the floor who expressed sentiments of satisfaction with the arrangements and their execution. The music was fine and everything passed off delightfully.

—Relief Corps No. 83, will give an Open Sale in G. A. R. Hall, Post 161, Savings Bank Block, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 9, to which the public are respectfully asked to come. The price of admission has been fixed at the small sum of 15 cents, which includes an entertainment and a Pie Supper free. The pie supper will alone be worth more than 15 cents.

—Rev. Dr. J. L. Hall of Medford delivered two fine sermons in the pulpit of the First Congregational church last Sunday. He is evidently an able man, and as a clergyman of the Orthodox denomination he stands in the front ranks. The large congregations present at the two services last Sunday highly enjoyed the sermons which Rev. Dr. Hall preached.

—Miss Mable C. Davis has been engaged to sing at Canton at the Catholic church High Mass on Christmas Day. The lady is in demand as a soloist and frequent calls for her services come from in and all around Boston where few, if any, are to be found possessing the rich, mellow and thoroughly trained contralto voice so delectable Miss Davis's listeners.

—It is surmised that the "Young Democrats" have broken loose from the Mossbacks "for keeps." There are scores and scores of them who it is presumed will never be seen training in "the same old gang" any more, but will join drives with other young men, seize the political reins, and all work together for better local government.

—The 324th Regiment will celebrate the 27th anniversary of the Battle of Fredericksburg on Dec. 12 at the United States Hotel in Boston, to which the Sons of Veterans are cordially invited. An election of officers will also be held. Capt. John E. Tidd, Maj. Baneroff, and some other Veterans of this city belonged to the 324th and will attend the meeting on the 12th.

—On Dec. 10, in the evening, there is going to be a queer kind of an exhibition in the lecture room of the First Congregational church, the name of which we leave the intelligent readers of the JOURNAL to find out for themselves by viewing it in our advertising columns. We can throw no light on the kind of an exhibition it is going to be—people must go and see for themselves.

—A sermon preached in the First Church of Woburn in the forenoon of Dec. 27, 1771, by James Coggin, M. A., a graduate of Harvard, Class 1763, will be published in the JOURNAL in a couple of weeks or so—just 120 years after its delivery. The sermon will be prefaced by a brief biographical sketch of the preacher, who was a native of Woburn, by Dr. David Coggin of Salem, Mass., one of his descendants.

—Mr. Frederic A. Flint is just of the clean of members of the School Board. He protested vehemently against being a candidate and after yielding to the solicitations of the Republican leaders and consenting to the use of his name he instructed his friends to vote against him because his large business duties positively would not admit of attending to the duties of his office without neglect of private interests. Notwithstanding which, he polled a large vote and lacked only 5 of being Chairman Kenney. Mr. Flint says there will be no recount in his—the result suits him too well. He would have made a first-rate member of the Board.

—John W. Johnson, Esq., voiced the sentiment of three-quarters of the citizens of Woburn last Monday evening when he said that Mr. Gilman F. Jones ought to be continued in the office of Street Commissioner for five years because few if any could give so much excellent highway for so little money. Mr. Johnson thinks Mr. Jones a model road-builder, and the opinion is quite unanimously endorsed by the people.

—J. W. Hammond & Son have a large display of notices in the JOURNAL this week which will pay anybody to read. It is quite evident from what they set forth in the notice that this popular old house are going to wade straight in for trade these holidays, and to get it they are offering the lowest sort of prices for as large, varied and desirable stock of clothing, underwear, gent's furnishings goods, hats, etc., as can be found in this part of Middlesex County.

—Dr. L. F. Hatch, a young gentleman who recently came here from Michigan and settled down to the practice of medicine, has concluded to strike his tent and move to Lynn where a most encouraging professional opening has presented itself. He has worked up a much larger practice here than he looks for in so short a period and is deeply making it easy to him to go. He is a skilled physician and surgeon and is bound to succeed wherever he may locate.

—Prof. Lounsbury is filling the honorable and responsible office of Principal of the Cummings school on account of the resignation of Master Crocker. It is Mr. L.'s old stamping ground. By the way, they say Lounsbury has a deep-seated shut on a re-election as Clerk of the Council and Committees—we hope at a little better salary too, for there are but few men who could fill the position so well as he does or would put so much extra work into it.

—Yesterday morning Flanagan was sent down for 6 months for yielding too often to the wicked seductions of the flowing bowl. He told his Honor he thought it easy enough to be sent to the House of Correction just for celebrating with a few neighbors Mr. Thompson's election. "You know, Judge, when we had a little jamboree at my house over your election it was all right, and what's the matter with celebrating a bit again this year?" But sentence had been passed.

—Hi Henry's Minstrel troupe gave one of their unique entertainments in Lyceum Hall last Monday evening to a large audience, as they always do here in Woburn. They are no strangers to our people and it speaks well for the high character of their shows that each succeeding one draws a larger audience than its predecessor. For a low price ticket Hi Henry and his first-class performers give as much fun and enjoyment as could be bought in Boston for twice the money.

—Copeland & Bowser are filling the shelves, tables, stands, etc., of their large store with as complete a stock of holiday goods as one would wish to see or will see here this holiday season. Among them are stacks of books of all kinds—many very handsome ones; china and glassware of unique design; leather goods, pictures; plush goods; and many others too numerous to mention this week. The wares are already attracting many examiners and prospective purchasers.

—The Australian voting system works like a charm. It does more to make alleged freemen free in the exercise of his right of suffrage than anything else that ever came over. It is in every and the best sense of the word a secret ballot, under the operation of which a voter can let his own conscience be his guide and let his own conscience be his guide and let his own conscience be his guide.

—The short-hand and typewriter branches of our system of education are in a hopeful condition. The sub-committee of the School Committee chosen to arrange for the introduction and prosecution of those studies in the evening school held a meeting on last Monday evening to put them into active and successful operation. The prospect is bright for the new department and in a very short time pupils will be furnished facilities for instruction in short-hand and typewriting by the School Board of this city. This is one of the most important steps ever taken by our school authorities and is certain to prove of undoubted benefit to the rising generation of this city.

—Mr. Fred W. McDonald (son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McDonald) and his fair bride (Miss Alice Irene Merrill), who were united in the holy bonds of wedlock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Merrill, in this city last Wednesday evening, will please accept the congratulations of the JOURNAL and the honest hope that their wedded life may be pleasant and prosperous to the end. There cannot be produced anywhere a worthier young couple than Fred McDonald and his wife, nor one that enjoys a larger circle of good warm friends. Everybody wishes them very well indeed, judging from the amount of rice sent yesterday morning scattered over the doormat in front of the residence in Woburn. Mr. Merrill's residence on Union street.

—Prohibition got a black eye again at our city election. "No License" was buried clean out of sight. As a bright young Garfield Avenue lady—an honest, earnest worker in the temperance cause—said to the JOURNAL on Tuesday morning: "No wonder the real friends of prohibition are disgusted and discouraged. What did the pretended advocates of temperance do towards carrying the city for No License at yesterday's election? Where were the temperance lectures that ought to have been given? The temperance rallies they ought to have held? The work they ought to have done for the cause? The fact is, the JOURNAL is the only power in this city that keeps the little spark of the breath of life going in the temperance ranks and I should think even the JOURNAL would get disgusted and worn out trying to do something to put down rum-selling. I am, and she looked as though she was as she bid the JOURNAL "good morning."

—It sometimes pays for railways to meet the people half way. In Hungary, where the railway fares were reduced by the "Zone system" from 40 to 80 per cent the receipts have increased 18 per cent and the number of passengers rose from 2,000,000 to 7,000,000.—W.

—It always works that way. If the B. & M. R. R. Co. will give Woburn a 10-cent fare to Boston in less than a year the increase in the income from passenger traffic will lead them to exclaim "why were we so blind as not to have discovered this before?" Appropos to the theme under consideration: the Postoffice Department at Washington are again seriously considering the question of penny postage. That's a straw. All human experience leads to one and only one conclusion as to the wisdom of cheap fares.

—The funeral of Louis E. Staples, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fort Staples, took place at the residence of the latter on Wednesday afternoon last. The religious ceremonies were conducted by the pastor Rev. Hugh Montgomery; appropriate music was furnished by a Quartette from the Boston University; and the undertakers Tripp conducted the procession. The deceased was the only child of his parents, aged 21 years last July. He left besides his father and mother a young wife to whom he was devotedly attached. He died last Saturday after a short illness of typhoid fever, with the force of which no human skill or care was able to successfully cope. There were many school-fellows, his classmates in the High School, and associates in the town who will sadly miss and sincerely regret his early death.

—Wedding Anniversary.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ayers entertained about fifty of their friends Monday evening, Nov. 23, on the 10th anniversary of their wedding. The evening was spent pleasantly with conversation, music, and song. A poem was read which was composed for the occasion by one present.

Among the many presents were a china tea set, silver cake basket, cut glass pickle dish and sugar bowl.

The following is the poem:
TO MR. AND MRS. HARRY AYERS ON THE TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR MARRIAGE.

When life was at its brightest and skies were so blue,
When every flower seemed blooming in youth and
When hope shone at its clearest and joy in music Seemed ever sweetly singing "O'er earth a king Love reigns!"

Then two fond hearts were pledged and promises were made,
Together o'er earth's pathway while life remains
The vows were made in Heaven and angels on While one, the Great Creator, who among the archangels dwells.

A record of the doings occurring here below,
That to his Lord and Master's praise he might show,
Upon a snowy surface the pledged vows were down,
And sealed it with a jewel plucked from his own breast.

Now ten years have glided since that auspicious day—
Years fought with joy and sorrow, with fruitage and defeat;
Yet still the pure affection which blessed that bridal morn, Purs forth its lovely blossoms with every radiant day.

Still lives the holy purpose those wedded vows to keep.
Still the lips that breathed them shall close in lovely sleep;
For still the time may elapse full many years bright,
As he earth's pathway travel and castles fall may be bright.

He shall show one blossom plucked from your bridal wreath,
And still the victor o'er care and pain and death.

And so we give you greeting, dear friends, this festal night,
And wish you bring you, that still the glad sight
Of your path may lead you to a clear and shining
And may earth's care and labor grow with light and shine,
Which cheers in disappointment and makes this life
a path of radiant beauty upleading to our Home.

Still may our Heavenly Father, whose care has been with all their joy and sadness their mingled hopes and fears,
Smile on your future journey and to each other share
The precious lives united with links so bright and fair.

Till reward you win
And the portals to bid you enter in The mansion Christ hath builded upon the upper world,
There in immortal glories to dwell forever more.

Not At All Sanguine.
WOBURN, NOV. 20, 1891.
REV. HUGH MONTGOMERY:

My Dear Sir:—You ask my opinion regarding the prospect for a No License vote in our city at the coming election, and I regret to say I consider the chance very small indeed. Should we succeed in getting such a vote I greatly fear it would be of little value in judging from the temper of many of the leaders of public opinion in Woburn.

It seems to me that the people of Woburn do not want any law enforced when they neglect to improve so good an opportunity as was offered this year to break up the rum traffic in a lawful manner by sustaining you with money and moral support in your efforts against unlawful selling. In my judgment $500 with the moral support of the best class of citizens (to which your efforts were fully entitled) would have driven the illegally licensed saloons out of existence in Woburn.

This failure to respond has put us back ten years and saloons are to control our city until the public conscience is again aroused to its awful work and they rise in their might and drive the fiend out.

Hoping sometime in the future to see a better understanding of this question, I am, dear Sir,
Very truly yours,
GRIFFIN PLACE.

[This was crowded out of our last issue out it makes good reading and we therefore take the liberty to print it this week. The letter contains more truth than we wish it did.—ED. JOURNAL.]

City Election.

Woburn passed through one of the hottest election contests last Tuesday that was ever experienced in its history. In no presidential election that the "Oldest Inhabitant" has any recollection of has bigger licks been put in for the respective candidates and hardly ever has the result been more close.

Both candidates for Mayor were popular gentlemen and of untarnished personal records. Fortunately for Mr. Thompson he was not only a clean man and a citizen without reproach but he represented the more highly respectable element of the city—the temperate, moral, educated element which, after all said and done, is the ruling element among us.

Mr. Bean, equally deserving on the grounds named as Mr. Thompson, unfortunately represented an element that the voters had made up their minds not to tolerate any longer, and by that token he failed of a re-election. The contest was really between elements of population rather than one between two individuals.

It is not gold chains connecting it with the badge. On top of the badge rests an eagle poised between the open mouths of two cannon, while from the lower edge of the badge, on either side, project the butts of the same cannon; around the circle is the inscription, "Gratia Dei Servatus" and beneath it, "MDCCCLXXXI." A more handsome piece of work in solid gold is seldom seen, and to say that he fully appreciated and prized the honor which these battle-scarred heroes did him, hardly expresses his feelings in the matter.—Prescott (Arizona) Courier.

Munn & Co.
The attention of readers is directed to the advertisement of Munn & Co., patent solicitors, in another column. Their name is familiar to patentees throughout the country. In connection with the publication of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN for the past fifty-five years, they have made the drawings and specifications for more than one hundred and twenty thousand inventions, and their facilities for obtaining patents were never better than now.

Catarrh
Is a constitutional and not a local disease, and therefore it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the disease, and effects a permanent cure. Thousands of people testify to the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh when other preparations had failed.

Catarrh
"I will say I have been troubled for several years with that terribly disagreeable disease, catarrh. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla with the very best results. It cured me of that continual dripping in my throat, and stuffed up feeling. It has also helped my mother, who has taken it for run down state of health and kidney trouble." Mrs. S. D. HEATH, Putnam, Conn.

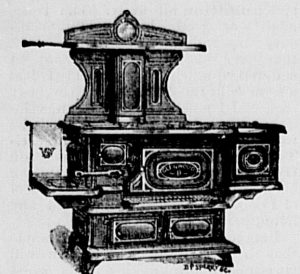

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wausau, O.

Christmas Penellings.

The merry Christmas time will soon be here when all the town will be in the midst of it and enjoying its festivities. Only two more weeks remain and then comes Christmas-tide with all that joyous word implies, and already the young people, we suspect, and old ones too, are whetting their appetites and lengthening out their stockings in order to be in full readiness for the greatest day in the year, its gifts, its good cheer, and its delights.

Well, the JOURNAL hopes everybody will be merry and happy on that day and will do all it can to make them so. But how about your Christmas presents, Gentle Reader? Have you bought them yet? No? Well, lend us your ear for a moment while we gently breathe into it the fact (mind you don't forget it) that you can name no other place in Middlesex county where holiday presents can be bought cheaper than in Woburn, or quite so cheap. That is a fact.

Why, then, we ask, should the fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, lovers and sweethearts of Woburn, Stoneham, Winchester, Burlington, Wilmington, etc., go to Boston for their Christmas presents when they can find as beautiful ones here, in as great variety—endless in kind, quality, design, and everything else? It is the height of folly for them to think of doing such a thing. They can purchase just as rare and beautiful gift goods here as in Boston and for less money; why, then, do they think of going away from home when it is sure to cost them so much? Think of the folly of it, folks!

It is elegantly made and splendidly illustrated book that you want for your presents, Gentle Reader of the towns above named? Or fine pictures? Or beautiful wares; fancy boxes; plush goods; sparkling crystals; and things of that sort? Then all you have got to do as you meander down Main street is to drop into Mr. Willard Smith's, Mr. Ames Cummings's, Messrs. Copeland & Bowser's, Mr. Webster's, etc. Perhaps you are looking for skates, sleds, coasters and the like nice gifts for your boys. Well, step into Mr. Leonard Thompson's, Mr. Holdridge's, Mr. Clough's. In each of these stores everything in the line you are on can be found, and at prices that will actually amaze you on his counters and stands lovely Christmas presents—all new, neat, bright and of the latest production. Something in the same way Gordon Parker, the popular druggist, has opened up and makes a splendid show of. And over across the Common Fred Leeds's Christmas exhibition strongly attracts young and old, and his trade promises to be big.

At Munroe's, Gage & Co's, Alex. Grant's and Hammond's the thrifty housewife can find furnishing goods, and underwear, neckwear, gloves, cases, etc., that their "Lords" would highly appreciate as Christmas presents. There is almost an endless variety of such useful wares at the stores above named and the prices are lower than in Boston.

There are shops at Bancroft's and Buckman's and the traditional slipper for the minister; and at Frank B. Dodge's rich and elegant gold and silver goods are on exhibition and for sale at less than Boston figures. It is safe to say that no dealer anywhere shows a more beautiful stock of clocks, watches, jewelry, gems and goods of that kind than Mr. Dodge.

Prior to the great "Curiosity Shop" that in variety of quaint and curious goods beats the one Dickens would so charmingly about two to one. Just to name a one-hundredth part of the things to be found in Prior's would require a liberal education with a good knowledge of geography and the mechanical arts to boot.

Mrs. Jennings has stocked up her shelves and counters with an almost endless selection of Christmas goods and is prepared to please the young people better than ever before. She has nearly everything that can be thought of for presents.

We might keep on in this fashion until the malodorous of the printers up stairs were ready to fall on our head, but what would be the use of it! Suffice it to say that the numerous stores in the city of Woburn are bristling and running over with rich, elegant, appropriate and beautiful Christmas goods and they are all to be sold remarkably cheap.

One word or so more and we will close: Don't postpone your Christmas shopping, Gentle Reader, until the day and night before the advent of that happy and merry holiday. If you do you will regret it. Concerning the times of buying presents the habits of the people have changed. It is not the fashion now to wait until the last minute, but to visit the stores early, examine leisurely, buy understandingly, and thus please yourself and the recipients of your generous bounty more. Don't wait!

Sensible and judicious people are already buying their presents, and the JOURNAL says to everyone of its Gentle Readers go thou and do likewise.

Interlinked Ancestry.

To the caption above given we might add, "The Curiosities of Genealogy." The writer has sometimes had the curiosity, as a pastime, to look up, to a certain extent, the various lines of descent in the case of some well known native of Woburn. When our respected citizen, E. F. Johnson, was elected to the office of Mayor it was a pleasure to trace his descent back through a long line of honored names to Edward Johnson, the first Town Clerk of Woburn, the historian, the architect, and the man of affairs in many ways in the early history of our old town. Other names interlinked with that of Johnson designate other ancestors of note in the old time.

It has already been thought worthy of special notice that a similar pedigree is the inheritance of our present Mayor-elect. In a direct, unbroken line, on one side, he is descended from James Thompson, one of the thirty-two signers of the famous Town Orders, Dec. 18, 1640; and in an equally direct line, on the other side, he is descended from John Wyman, another of the signers of those Orders. As the number of those signers and of the first settlers of Woburn was small their families often intermarried. Hence, of the thirty-two signers of the Orders at least seven became ancestors of E. Everett Thompson—James Thompson, John Wyman, Edward Converse, James Converse, Samuel Richardson, John Wright and Capt. John Carter.

Of the seven men designated by the mother church in Charlestown to effect the organization of the First Church of Woburn in 1642, at least two, perhaps three, were ancestors of E. E. Thompson.

Of the original members of the First Church, after its organization was effected, though its roll of members for the first 114 years is unfortunately lost, it is well known that a considerable number were, or ere long became, by various intermarriages, ancestors of our Mayor-elect.

Of the first Board of Selectmen three were ancestors, one of whom, James Thompson, served for nearly twenty years.

To one who has looked into the matters of ancestral history it is interesting to notice that several of the names here mentioned represent not merely one line but two or more separate lines of descent from either James Thompson or John Wyman down to E. Everett Thompson. The Simonds, Reed, Whitmore, Blodgett, and others well known in old Woburn are found in one or another of these lines of descent.

Now, let those who bear the honored names of Johnson, Converse, Richardson, Wyman, Carter, Fowle, Wright, Simonds, Tidd, and so on, give us a Woburn families they represent, and I am sure we shall all together make out at least a respectable history. Let the old town of two and a half centuries give all the moral and uplifting aid possible to the new city of less than three years. And in good time it may be hoped that each of the honored names of the olden time may have an honored representative in the office and Chair of Mayor of Woburn. It would not be difficult to nominate men bearing these names even now.—L. T.

Boston Theatres.
GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"The Fire Patrol," produced at the Lyceum last night, is a new melodrama full of interest and realistic and thrilling situations. In the second act it introduces a scene showing the interior of a mill where a crash is crushed. In another scene the fire patrol comes tearing in and the eyes of the gallery boys are as big as saucers. The company was altogether fully equal to the demands of the play which was well received by a large audience.—Buffalo (N. Y.) Evening News, Sept. 22. "The Fire Patrol" will be produced at the Grand Opera House, Boston, next week in the splendid style for which that popular theatre is famous.

THE BOWDOIN SQUARE.

This new theatre will be completed and opened to the public on Monday evening, Feb. 15. It is proposed by the proprietors and manager, Messrs. Harris & Atkinson (also of the Columbia Theatre), to make the opening of The Bowdoin Square an event long to be remembered by theatre-going people, of the character of which due notice will be given.

BOSTON MUSEUM.

"A Sailor's Knot" is being enjoyed here by large audiences. The scenic effects are beautiful, the cast superb, and it is finding the heart of the public. The parts are well played, the company of the company and the individual successes are many. The play has long been in preparation at the Museum and there is reason to believe that Mr. Field, who has already produced several new plays this season, has at last found one that will be highly acceptable to the host of Museum patrons.

THE COLUMBIA.

"Jane" was presented here Monday night. It is a farcical comedy which had its first performance at The Comedy Theatre in London on Dec. 18 of last year, and made a great hit. Miss Johnston Bennett as "Jane" was admirable. Paul Arthur played Shalton, Mr. M. C. Daley's performance of Kerslaw was thoroughly delightful. The other parts were assumed by Mr. R. F. Cotton, Mr. Edwards, Miss Fisher, Katherine Gray and Miss Amelia Summersville.

THE BOSTON.

Minnie Hank Opera Co. close their engagement next Sunday evening. Tonight "Carallera Rusticana," preceded by the second act of "Carmen" by request. Saturday matinee "Lohengrin," Saturday night "Hilf Trovatore," and Sunday night a grand concert in which all the artists as well as the chorus and orchestra will appear. Next Monday night "A Fairy Revue" will be presented with grand scenery and a most excellent company.

THE HOLDS.

Sardou's "Thermidor" was presented Monday evening for the first time in Boston, and was well received. It is full of sensational dramatic incidents and presents a series of terribly vivid sketches of life in Paris during a time which will always remain most prominent in the history of France. Elsie De Wolf, a society belle who recently left the amateur stage, impersonated the heroine; Mr. Frederic De Belleville was the hero; and Mr. Frederic Bondy's Laubussiere was the best feature of the cast.

THE TREMONT.

Miss Rosina Vokes comes to the Tremont next Monday night. Miss Vokes has selected one of her old but most popular and successful bills, i. e., "A Game of Cards," "The Mystery of the Bell," and "A Pantomime Rehearsal." "A Pantomime Rehearsal" is described as a "skit" on amateur theatricals. It has no plot and only purports to be an imitation of the efforts of some fashionable amateurs to act a pantomime under the supervision of the author. The much lauded author is played by Courtney Thorpe; his principal tormentor is played by Felix Morris; the heavy dragon, impersonated the heroine; Mr. Frederic De Belleville was the hero; and Mr. Frederic Bondy's Laubussiere was the best feature of the cast.

THE GLOBE.

Agnes Huntington presented "Capt. Thersere" on Monday night to a large audience. The opera is charming and one cannot enjoy every minute. The music is delightful. Miss Huntington is the centre of attraction. There are a few delicious songs, notably Alexander and Agnes Huntington's air "If he had loved me more." The "Song of the Butterfly" is a gem in its brilliancy of vocalization. Next week will be the last of Miss Huntington's engagements.

THE PARK.

"County Fair" still holds forth here and the rush is greater than ever. Extra preparations are being made to celebrate the 100th performance of the play this evening. Mr. Padewski the celebrated pianist and his party occupied a box at the Park Monday night.

There was deep and heartfelt mourning over the death of Miss Margaret Moynihan of this place for she was a very popular young lady. She held an honorable position as teacher in the Chicago schools when she was stricken down with fatal disease.

The Congregational ladies gave a "Pink Tea" last week. I think vital piety would more abundantly abound here if there were fewer "pink teas" at certain and more prayer. The marked decline in spiritual matters is in my judgment directly due to "church theatricals," "pink teas," and such like ungodly and unchristian habits on the part of the church.

Of the coming events of the present winter none promises to be of greater interest to our citizens generally than the conference on "Needed Changes in our Grammar Schools," to be held in the Town Hall Jan. 24th, when President Eliot of Harvard College and others will make addresses.—Star. True, President Eliot of Harvard is to be one of the speakers.

REASONS.
To the business men of Woburn, who, as a class, are men of clear brain and quick to recognize a good thing when they see it, the following reasons why they should insure in The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York are respectfully submitted:

1st Reason.—Hundreds of business men in Woburn today have their all in their business. They must keep their capital intact if possible. Yet if death overtakes the head of the firm and the business is forced to close, the business may result in a great calamity to all concerned. The insurance in values what bankruptcy to many a business and home. But a Mutual Life Insurance policy is a great collateral security, and its results will be the business left intact, and the family participating in the Mutual Fund of the Mutual.

2nd Reason.—To the thoughtful business man Life Insurance takes precedence of Fire Insurance. Fire may never come. Death must come. Burned buildings may be replaced with money, but the life can never be replaced. The currency of will and the force of character which made the business are destroyed by death, and cannot be reproduced. Therefore the wise man will provide himself with a Mutual Life Policy, which, like a benefactor, will step in to protect those who are left when he has gone.

3rd Reason.—The business man who places himself in the care of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, is placing himself in the hands of a company which has attained the noble position of being the largest Life Insurance Company in the world.

The Assets of the Mutual Life Insurance Company are $147,154,901.20.
That paid to Policy Holders over $308,000,000.

The Woburn Journal

THE JOURNAL is for sale at the stores of Sparrow Horton, 105 Main Street, Charles R. Brown, 106 Main Street, John Cummings, 2d, Cummingsville, Samuel E. Brown, W. A. Hanson, North Woburn, and at G. P. Wyman's, Winchester.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
All advertisements to insure insertion in this paper, must be handed in as early as 10 o'clock on Thursday forenoon.

VOLUME XLII.

At the beginning of the 42nd year of its life the JOURNAL, with but in hand, makes its best bow to the public accompanied with hearty thanks for the liberal patronage bestowed on it by the good people of Woburn and vicinity during the past year, and respectfully bespeaks a continuance of the same.

Although, as the lives of newspapers are reckoned, the JOURNAL is getting to be venerable (if not yet quite hoary with age), yet it has never been better, better health, more buoyant in spirit, or had more hard work in its life and sinews than it has to-day. In feelings, endurance and hope the JOURNAL is only a boy, while in years it must be classed among the oldest of Massachusetts weekly newspapers.

For what its conduct will be in the future the JOURNAL points to its record of the past, only it would announce its determination to deal more vigorously and unsparingly with sin and vice of all kinds, and especially is it intended that its crusade against rum-selling shall be hotter and more persistent than ever before. Rum-sellers and rum-sympathizers will receive no mercy at the hands of the JOURNAL because it looks upon the traffic in intoxicating liquors as the greatest evil of the present day.

But we would refrain from further discussion of the JOURNAL's future course, and in the mean time repeat our hearty thanks for the business favors received from this community the present year.

Principal Samuel W. Mendum of the Woburn High School had a signed Editorial in the Boston Sunday Globe of Dec. 13 which treated of shorthand and typewriting as regular studies in the public schools of the State. There are people in the country who still cling to the Democratic doctrine of 40 years ago that a public school means teaching the "Three R's"—Reading, 'Riting and 'Rithmetic—and no more, and that no legal warrant can be produced for taxing the people for the maintenance of schools for other and higher branches of learning. It is a serious question as to what a "common school education" really means, and it is one on which much thought has been bestowed, particularly as bearing on the matter of taxation. It is not yet a settled question, but that the term means more than it did 30 or 40 years ago is a proposition too clear to need argument in support of it. But just what it does mean has never yet been settled, a fact which Principal Mendum seems to appreciate. He therefore handles the subject from the standpoint of expediency, which perhaps is the truest and most practical one that can be assumed in discussing the introduction of the above studies and making them a part of the curriculum of our common schools. Mr. Mendum's Editorial was ably written and will doubtless exert a good influence in favor of practical education.

The holiday number of The Journalist, a first-class monthly chiefly devoted, as its name indicates, to matters and things appertaining to newspapers and the people who make them, is unique and very attractive. Its principal feature is a large number of portraits of leading New York journalists with "specimen bricks" of their literary work. We like the number, but what gives it increased value in our eyes is the portrait of Thomas C. Quinn ("Tommy") at the top of an article entitled "Deceitful Pats" from his pen. The piece is well written and to the point, but the portrait—well, the least said about it the better. Journalist Quinn when a "Woburn boy" was not only bright and talented, but was thought to be about the finest looking young man among us, but nobody would mistrust such a thing from looking at his picture in the Journalist.

It is safe to say that no annual report of public services was ever anticipated with a greater degree of impatience than the forthcoming one of the Massachusetts Gypsy Moth Commission. Perhaps one reason for this state of feeling is the desire to find out how much truth, if any, there was in the stories of the Boston papers last summer to the effect that the capture of each of the several gypsy moths alleged to have been achieved by the Commission cost the Commonwealth of Massachusetts nearly or quite $1,800. Public curiosity on that point is intense and is surpassed only by the impatience to ascertain, in an official manner, just how many moths the Commission put an end to last season.

There is no occasion for alarm. To be sure the gripe is here again this winter but the newspapers are making more ado about it than there is any warrant for. The distemper struck Boston last Wednesday with considerable virulence, and it is cutting a tolerable wide swath at Haverhill, Lawrence, Andover, Lowell, and there are cases of it in nearly every locality around here; but there is no sense in getting frightened about it. All the doctors maintain that what there is of the complaint in this region is of a mild form, and the best way to keep it at arm's length is not to be afraid of it.

The Journal, Post, Traveller, and some other Boston papers are fighting the West End Street Railway Company, or rather the management of the Company in regard to lack of accommodations for the traveling public, with might and main, and bid fair to bring about a much needed reform. It is asserted that the only reason why some of the other leading papers do not join the fight against the West End is because they have been heavily subsidized.

Not less than $1,300 a month is about the average amount paid by The Arena for the literary compositions with which it fills its pages. For so young a candidate for public favor that looks like a good deal of money to pay out to its contributors every month; but, then, it is the very best kind of matter that it gets in exchange, and it is found by the managers of The Arena that the old idea of "the best is the cheapest" is as true when applied to the contents of magazines as when applied to anything else.

The Boston Evening Traveller, under the management of the Committee of One Hundred, is doing a grand work for temperance and the American public school. That its course is warmly endorsed by the best elements in the community is proved by the rapid growth of its subscription list and the intense hatred manifested towards it by the saloons and their unfortunate patrons. Long may the Traveller wave!

It was a very large sized victory that the Great Unwashed won in the Boston city election last Tuesday. Matthews, the Democratic candidate, was elected over Allen, the Republican nominee, by nearly 16,000 majority. Allen ought to have shown more wisdom than to have accepted the nomination. The Democrats also elected a majority of the City Council.

The Boston city election showed one remarkable and encouraging feature. It was on the liquor license vote, the majority in favor of granting licenses being cut down from 15,349 last year to 4,323 this. Somebody must have put in good work for temperance.

The Malden Mirror office was badly damaged by fire last Wednesday. Several papers were printed by Mr. Gray, proprietor of the Mirror, in the issue of which there was no delay. The property was fairly well insured. Mr. Gray has the sympathy of the craft in his loss.

Senator Wyer will be Chairman of the Joint Standing Committee on Water Supply, and Representative Hevey will be a member of the Committee on Woman Suffrage.

Many people, principally ladies, are to be seen in Mr. Amos Cummings's big elegant store from morning to night buying Christmas presents. They all seem to be highly pleased with their purchases. Well they might be for they had a magnificent stock to select from.

The funeral of the venerable Captain Sullivan Simonds took place at the residence of his son, Mr. N. J. Simonds, last Saturday afternoon. The pallbearers were: Messrs. John Johnson, Joseph W. Hammond, John Gilcrest, Parker Eaton, Charles H. Bass, Charles Mann.

On no holiday season before has the jewelry store of Mr. F. B. Dodge held out more or stronger inducements to the holiday buyer than this year. His stock is a rich and elegant one, and consists of everything usually kept in a first-class jewelry store. His gold and silver Christmas goods are beautiful.

Many of the first ladies of Woburn claim that Miss Emma Conant of No. 9 Church street excels in cleaning kid gloves and that nowhere in Woburn is there a cleaner place than the one she occupies. She enjoys a large patronage in the line of glove-renovating because of the superiority of her work and cheap prices.

By some unaccountable mistake we omitted to say last week that the Epworth League connected with the M. E. Church would hold a fancy article sale and oyster supper in the vestries of their church on Tuesday evening, Dec. 15, but the pleasant affair took place all the same and was a great success.

City Auditor Preston publishes a notice in this issue of the JOURNAL which is of interest to everybody who has demands against the city. Read it and see if it isn't. A prompt compliance with the Auditor's request will expedite matters in his office wonderfully and prove a good thing for the city's creditors.

We propose to print and deliver the JOURNAL to its subscribers on Thursday, day before Christmas, next week, in order to get the public into a proper state of mind to properly celebrate and enjoy that holiday. Subscribers will do well to remember this notice and make sure to get their copies of the paper on Thursday evening.

The intelligent reader will find that the outside pages of the JOURNAL contain much excellent and interesting literary matter this week. Judge Converse's "A Leather Pocket-book" must needs please the older generation of Woburnites; and on the same first page may be found too "Little Shoe Reformers," a string of pretty verses which are particularly recommended to the careful perusal of the unfortunate slaves of intoxicating drinks; other poetry; choice selections of miscellaneous reading and so forth—all of the very best class.

Big signs invite the seeker after Christmas gift goods to come into the store of Mr. C. Willard Smith, and it is noticed that those who accept the invitation look very happy when they come and find the beautiful things suitable for holiday presents, and we notice that great swarms of ladies go there every day to buy.

Mr. Estabrook, the Main street baker came down last Saturday the first time in at least three months. Since early in September or before Mr. Estabrook has suffered intensely with rheumatic complaints and for several weeks his life was despaired of. He has hosts of good friends who were very glad indeed to see him on the streets once more.

At a regular meeting of the Corporation, held on the evening of Dec. 10, $4,000 was sold at premium from 5 to 25 cents per share. Hereafter the Treasurer's and Secretary's office will be at No. 15 Pleasant st. Mr. Whitcher having bought out and established himself at the Leeds drugstore at that No.—the same being in the Savings Bank block.

Mr. Gilman F. Jones went to Lowell to visit his old friend General B. F. Butler last Monday and found him well and hard at work on his autobiography. The General has been some time from an abscess in his ear but at no time has he been in a dangerous condition, as stated by the Boston papers, nor even been compelled to take his bed. The abscess has disappeared and the General is in prime health and the best of spirits.

Mr. Walter Stockpole, Superintendent of the Dow greenhouses, has a very large stock of the beautiful flowering plant called cyclamen which are so popular just now. They have commenced blooming and for a couple of months or so no product of the greenhouse will be able to successfully vie with the cyclamen for the post of honor on the parlor window-sill. Mr. Stockpole has them nicely potted and all ready for delivery.

The Boston Branch grocery store, Fitz & Stanley proprietors, have always taken the lead in the variety and quality of their Christmas goods. We can assure the readers of the JOURNAL that 1891 is no exception to their rule.

The confecting stores, and other places which advertise as the freshest that could be found in the market. Everything is of the best, a fact that should be remembered when ordering the Christmas dinner.

Relief Corps, 83, has elected the following officers: President, Miss Susan Tebbetts; Senior Vice-President, Mrs. Eliza Taber; Junior Vice-President, Mrs. Lillian Trull; Chaplain, Mrs. Margaret B. Cutler; Conductor, Miss Ada Hummel; Guard, Mrs. Jeannette Howe; Treasurer, Mrs. Deborah Brooks; Delegates, Mrs. Charles Andrews, Mrs. Emma Wendall; Alternates, Mrs. Jennie Rogers, Mrs. Hattie Patten.

Organist Clarke has arranged a fine programme of Christmas Music for the First Congregational church next Sunday morning, Dec. 20. It is as follows:

Carol. "A child is born this day." Old English Anthem. "Lift up your heads." Hopkins Carol. "White shepherds watched." Old English Gloria. Carol. "Twas in the winter cold." English Congregational Hymns.

The Christmas number of the JOURNAL will contain the sermon which Rev. Daniel March, D. D., preached at the First Congregational Church on Sunday morning, Dec. 13, 1891. We comply with a request to publish it with great pleasure. Another sermon, preached by T. Coggins, A. M., at the First Church in Woburn on Dec. 29, 1871, will also appear in next week's JOURNAL. Good things about the Christmas tide will also be printed in the same issue.

Durward's popular market is filled with the best of Christmas eating and drinking materials for an A. A. Christmas dinner to be found there. Tender roasts, juicy turkeys, fat geese, ducks, real genuine yellow-legged chickens, so greatly affected by old time circuitriding Methodist ministers, are piled high at Durward's; and then just see the heaps of fresh vegetables, the variety of fruits—everything, it is safe to say, and all of the choicest kind, for a rich and rare Christmas dinner.

Last Sunday the Sunday School of the First Congregational Church in this city held their annual election of officers with the following results: Superintendent, Edward H. Lounsbury; Superintendent of Primary Department, Mrs. William W. Hill; Assistant Superintendent, William W. Crosby; Secretary, Stillman Shaw; Treasurer, Everett P. Fox; Librarian, Harry E. Marion; Frank Smith, John Jaquith, Daniel Dimick, Herbert Hartwell, Irving Bancroft.

Little ones, get your stockings—the longest legged ones you can find—al ready for hanging up on Christmas Eve. We have just got word from Jolly Santa Claus that he will certainly be in Woburn with his prancing team of silver-bellied reindeer about midnight on Thursday to fill all the stockings he finds suspended from the mantelpiece, etc., so be sure, children, that your stockings are right on hand like Day & Martin's blacking for the old fellow's call.

We are gratified to learn from our merchants that they are selling a great many holiday presents to the fair women of Winchester, Stoneham, Wilmington, Burlington and even of Lexington and Arlington. It shows that the estimable people of those towns home industries in an article headed "Christmas Penicillings" and are profiting by its perusal. The statement that Woburn dealers in holiday gift goods offer stronger inducements than ever to cash purchasers can't be successfully controverted.

Coughing Leads to Consumption. Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once.

Quite a large party of Woburn's prominent people are talking of a trip to California at an early day. Among them are Judge and Mrs. Converse, Mrs. Timothy Winn, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hayward, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Hammond, Mrs. A. B. Brooks. The matter is not yet definitely settled, but the probabilities are that the above named ladies and gentlemen, with perhaps others, will make the trip, and if so, it will be an independent tourist and voyager and not by one of the Raymond excursion trains.

It seemed as though nearly everybody for miles around took the advice of the JOURNAL to go and examine that rare piece of decorative art work, Mr. Amos Cummings's "Christmas Window," for there have been crowds around it ever since. By the way, that window is a study, and the longer and more closely it is examined the more beauties it discloses. For instance, while there are only two real flights of stairs no less than 8 flights are seen in the window. Everything else is multiplied in the same manner. The whole thing makes a beautiful picture.

What more appropriate Christmas present could one make to a musical friend than a handsome guitar, banjo, or mandolin? What could be more genteel in the way of a holiday gift or more to the point than an elegantly finished instrument of the kind? We can't think of anything. Now, Miss Emma Fossick keeps a full and complete stock of the finest guitars, banjos and mandolins at her home on Ash street, and for Christmas presents, is offering them at very low prices. People who are casting about for the most suitable tokens of love and remembrance at the Merry Christmas time for a musical friend will do well to recollect what is said above about Miss Fossick's guitars, etc.

Mr. Fred B. Leeds has sold out his drug business at No. 15 Pleasant st., Savings Bank Block, to Mr. A. W. Whitcher who has been salesman and proprietor at C. H. Bass's establishment for over eleven years past and is regarded as one of the safest and best persons in the business in this city. Being a graduate of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy Mr. Whitcher, with his 11 years and more of everyday practice, thoroughly understands the business, and can be depended upon as a safe and reliable dispenser of medicines. Besides these things Mr. Whitcher is a popular young man and we have no doubt but that he will make a gratifying success of his new purchase. See his advertisement on the first page of the JOURNAL.

Mrs. Jennings went down to Boston last Tuesday with a pocket-book almost bursting with bank bills, which she carried with her to pay for the great stock of holiday gift goods which she had in her mind to buy for the boys and girls of Woburn. When she came back at night her pocket-book looked as though it had been stepped on by an elephant. The reason of it was that she had spent about all of its contents for the nicest lot of Christmas presents that could be found in Boston which took nearly all the money she could muster. But she got the presents, and now, boys and girls, if you want something just a little bit finer than you ever saw before to fill Christmas stockings with go to Mrs. Jennings's and get them. And grow up people too.

In real estate matters in Winchester, sales of nearly all the best of the residence property are made through the well known and always reliable Boston-Winchester land office of Mr. F. H. Nourse and have been for a long time. In the last five years more than 1500 residences have been sold in residence property there have been lively. The town has been pushing ahead in population and character of its settlers. Much real estate has changed hands and many new homes have been built. A large share of these sales and exchanges have been effected through Mr. Nourse's popular and successful agency. The prospect for a still more notable forging ahead in Winchester's growth in the near future was never so bright as now, and it is fair to presume that Mr. Nourse's Real Estate Agency in this town will be an active and prosperous one for some years to come. Read the Agency's card in this paper. It should be stated that Mr. Nourse has a large clientele in Boston and does a fine business in city property.

Novel Way to Sell a Bad Horse.
Saturday evening a Woburn auctioneer [E. J. Gregory] devised a scheme for selling a back number horse, and put it into operation. The auctioneer had rented a store and filled it with a stock of china and obsolete articles from the stocks of the local merchants. The horse, a sorry specimen, indeed, was led into the store, and the auctioneer started to bid him off. Then the horse kicked the front door out and smashed the crockery. The equine was finally sold for $4.42, and pushed to its new owner's stable. People are curious to know how much profit the sale netted when damages to building and commission are figured.—Boston Herald, Monday.

That is just the kind of a man Gregory is. He stands ready to sell anything from a farm to a rat-tail and always suits the seller and buyer alike.

Burlington.
The pastor, with the assistance of Mr. McDonald and Mr. House of the Junior Class of the Andover Seminary, will conduct a series of meetings at the Burlington church, beginning Sunday, Dec. 20, and continuing each evening through the week with exception of Saturday. Mr. House with the Burlington choir and young people will furnish the music. Prayer service at 7 o'clock each evening except Sunday, when the service will begin at 7.30 as usual. All are invited.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Ashley Hall Concert.

The extra street cars that were put on for the purpose carried a large number of people to Miss Whittemore's Ladies Private School at Montvale, (called Ashley Hall) to enjoy the second Artists concert given by the Proprietor under the management of Mr. Frederic H. Lewis, who is Superintendent and teacher of the Musical Department of the Institution, and also Principal of the Lewis Music School of this city, last Wednesday evening, who reported a very enjoyable evening. A large party of the friends of the school were present. The parlors, drawingrooms, school apartments, etc. were brilliantly illuminated and cheerfully decorated; the company were exceedingly pleasant and agreeable people; the music was delightful; everything passed off superbly; and a pleasanter affair it would be difficult to be an attendant on.

The artistic character of the concert can be judged of more correctly by the following programme than in any other way; we therefore substitute it for a more elaborate description of it:

PROGRAMME.

A Sound Discourse.

Rev. Marcus D. Buell, D. D., Dean of Boston University Theological School, preached the second in the series of Sunday evening discourses at the Methodist church on Sunday last. He took for his text Roman 12:1-2, and then took up the meaning of sacrifice and emphasized the love which is shown by a willingness to sacrifice. A holy life was one unimpaired by the sin in the world while moving amidst it. He next touched upon the acceptable life which would come from holiness and sacrifice. A reasonable service he defined as not an automatic doing of duty, but a wholesome and hearty rendering of praise and service to the Lord. He spoke of the strong antithesis presented in the text between "conforming to the world" and "being transformed by the renewing of your mind."

The whole sermon was a masterly effort and seemed adapted with singular skill and felicity to every condition of the hearer.

Dr. Buell spoke clearly, pleasantly and with much spiritual fervor. The large audience found great enjoyment in listening to him.

The third sermon of the series will be given on next Sunday evening by Prof. Daniel Dorchester, Jr. He will take as his subject "Young Men," and the reputation of the speaker for eloquence and learning will ensure a most interesting discussion.

"Another Exploded Woburn Tradition."

Such is the startling caption of an article in a recent number of the Winchester Star. What the previous explosions were and how extensive the wreck we are not informed. But the writer goes on to say that "almost every one supposes that the world-known Baldwin apple was born and nurtured on Baldwin's farm in Woburn and residents of that place have for years pointed with pride to the farm that gave birth to this royal-crown fruit."

To these extraordinary assertions we simply reply: No intelligent man in Woburn or elsewhere has ever been known to affirm that the Baldwin apple was born in Woburn, nor has any man at any time affirmed that the apple was born on Baldwin's farm wherever that may have been. Neither of these statements is or has ever been a "Woburn tradition."

It has been proved beyond all dispute by numerous writers that the Baldwin apple that the original tree was found in Wilmington near the well known street called "Butter Row." Many years ago, the State Legislature, by a Committee of highest competence and respectability, investigated the subject and marked the site of the tree. A plan of the locality and of the route leading to North Woburn about two miles distant, was carefully made and engraved, copies of which still exist. To these essential facts no man in Woburn has more uniformly and unhesitatingly testified than the family of Col. Baldwin itself. His son, James P. Baldwin, of Boston, was one of the party specially interested in the identification. The late Marshall P. Wilder of Dorchester was another.

After the discovery of the tree by Samuel Thompson, Esq., a noted surveyor of North Woburn, and employed with Col. Baldwin and others in the survey for the Middlesex Canal, he and his brother, Sheriff Abijah Thompson took grafts and put them into a long line of trees near their home on what was and is still known as Ward Hill. It was from these trees, the Baldwin apple was blown down when full of fruit as late as 1870, that both the Thompsons and the Baldwins have believed Col. Baldwin, later on, took the apple with which he identified his famous "4 acre orchard" across the street from the Thompson orchard. And James P. Baldwin, not long before the last tree in the Thompson grounds was destroyed, came from Boston and bought some of the apples which he regarded as the second generation of the Baldwin apple in Wilmington. Mr. Baldwin was well known to the writer as a man and a relative, and the ground on which the tree stood, then owned by Dea. Charles Thompson, is now included in the writer's garden.

But the Winchester writer proceeds to "explode" the "Woburn Tradition" which never existed, by an extract from the History of Medford, by which it appears that Medford alone, of all the seven towns that have claimed to be the birthplace of the Baldwin apple, is the town that has the coveted honor, and the part of Medford designated, being now included in Winchester, the last named town, is the town in which the famous tree is declared to have stood on a few rods of the old Black Horse Tavern.

If the Winchester writer will read an Article in Vol. I, No. 3, pp. 172-176 of the Winchester Recorder, he will find that in the Winchester Library, he can see that something may be said on the other side. It may be proper to add in reference to this Article, that a distinguished writer, later deceased in one of our cities, after carefully reading it, pronounced it unwarrantable. One of the ablest writers in our largest city, intending to prepare an Article on the Baldwin Apple for a well-known and influential periodical, applied to the present writer for some facts and figures. He was told that a distinguished writer, later deceased in one of our cities, after carefully reading it, pronounced it unwarrantable. One of the ablest writers in our largest city, intending to prepare an Article on the Baldwin Apple for a well-known and influential periodical, applied to the present writer for some facts and figures. He was told that a distinguished writer, later deceased in one of our cities, after carefully reading it, pronounced it unwarrantable.

But though we cannot introduce the Article here, let us notice some of the alleged facts: I. Baldwin and Benjamin Thompson (Count Rumford) when passing to and fro in their weekly-attendance Prof. William Brewster, are said to have discovered and made known the qualities of the fruit on a tree standing on the farm of Samuel Thompson. It was in 1770 Baldwin was a young man in his 27th year, and Thompson was in his 28th year. And Samuel Thompson of Medford, who was born in 1740, was about four years old.

Six years after this, in 1776, Benjamin Thompson left the country and he and Baldwin remained warm friends and correspondents till the death of Baldwin in 1807. After Baldwin's famous orchard began to yield the fruit now everywhere known by his name, he sent to Count Rumford a half dozen apples as samples of a new kind of apple with the request that his old friend would test them and ascertain, if he could, in England, to what species it might belong. The letter accompanying this fruit was dated Nov. 4, 1790, twenty-nine years after the two students are said to have found and Boston Theatres.

THE PARK.
Neil Burgess still holds the boards at this theatre, and the "County Fair" is as popular as ever although on its 16th week. Taggart is a cat's paw. Tim is a hand with cold molasses. Aunt Abby and Olla Tucker still enjoy life at Rockbottom Farm. Aunt Abby's farm hand makes love to Sallie Greenway, and all through, the play presents beautiful pictures of life in the rural districts, and affords entertainment instructive and amusing.

THE BOSTON.
"A Fair Rebel" was presented Monday night to a large and enthusiastic audience. It can be seen for the balance of the week only. Next Monday "Limited Mail" will be the bill and constitute the Christmas attraction at the Boston Theatre where full houses are sure to greet it. The scenery and stage effects are beautiful.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.
"The Banker's Daughter" will be the attraction next week. The cast is headed by Mr. Frank Losee, an actor well remembered for Boston, having played in the "Soudan" during its long run here. Miss Emily Rigi and Miss Elsie Gorman have important character parts, to which they do justice.

THE GLOBE.
Next Monday "Blue Jeans" will be presented. Three clever actors saws are rapidly revolving in a saw mill. A long plank is being fed to it and on it is the body of the proprietor of the mill. He has been assaulted and thrown there by an insanely jealous workman. In the office behind a locked door is a frenzied woman. She is the wife of the man being hurled to a terrible death, and knows that her husband has but a minute to live. She breaks down the door, rushes to his rescue and saves him from the jaws of death. It is a thrilling drama.

THE HOLDS.
"Thermidor" can be seen only to-night, Saturday matinee and evening. Next Monday the Pictorial Stock Company begin a two weeks engagement and will present here for the first time "Geoffrey Middleton, Gentleman." In this company are Nelson Wheatcroft, W. H. Thompson, J. W. Shannon, William Fawcett, George Backus, George Leslie, Misses Minnie Seligman, Rita Vernon, Adelaide Stanhope, Helen Bancroft, Jane Stuart, Viola Crosby, and other well-known artists.

BOSTON MUSEUM.
"A Sailors Knot" is as full of vim as ever and the Museum patrons are enjoying a treat. Mr. Pettit's play, which is running in popularity each night, will be taken off next week, and on Dec. 28 will begin that wonderful masterpiece of Holcroft's, "The Road to Ruin."

THE TREMONT.
Rosina Vokes presented "A Game of Cards," "My Milliner's Bill" and "A Penitence Rehearsal" here Monday night and gave a royal welcome. "A Game of Cards" is a right clever piece and affords a burlesque in very pleasing. She will be the Christmas week attraction.

THE COLUMBIA.
"Jane" the balance of the week. On Monday Henry E. Dixey will come to the Columbia with a company specially framed for his support by Charles Frohman in a comedy entitled "The Man with a Hundred Heads." This piece affords Dixey many opportunities for excellent work. Among his most amusing features is a series of imitations in appearance, speech, and action, of prominent men. He is now at work on several other well known Bostonians. His make-up is so cleverly done that the originals are readily recognized.

North Woburn.
The entertainment in Unitarian Hall last night was a brilliant and very successful affair.
The apron sale and supper at the Unitarian Chapel on Wednesday evening week was highly enjoyed and yielded a good bit of money to the lady managers of it.

The people of this village feel very indignant over the cruel treatment which Frankie Martin, the 11-year-old boy who, it is alleged, was so brutally whipped by his father, last Sunday, and as the lad disappeared on the very day that Chief of Police McIntosh and an agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children visited Martin's with a view of investigating the matter, it is greatly feared that he has been secreted somewhere so that he cannot appear as a witness against his cruel father. The boy is a bright, well-behaved little fellow, and the people here take a lively interest in him. We think his present whereabouts ought to be thoroughly investigated and ascertained.

LATER. The boy was returned to his home on Tuesday evening from Burlington by a former neighbor. He has a habit of running away and probably needs a good trouncing once in a while. Monday his father might have put it on just a little too strong, but better so than too much parental overlooking of wrong-doing. It has come to a pretty pass when parents can't correct their children when they need it without having some Boston society with a long name step in and forbid them. That is one of the things that make children much more unruly and disobedient now than they used to be 40 or 50 years ago. I guess Mr. Martin knew what he was about when he strapped his run-away boy.

Literary Notices.
PETERSON for January is the handsomest and best number we have ever seen of this popular magazine. It opens with an excellent portrait and sketch of the popular novelist Edgar Fawcett. In a Cold Mine, is a graphic account admirably illustrated. Allies Work, by Mrs. Elsie W. Merriman, author of Parkie, etc., is a charming sketch. Sir Fisks, by Miss E. S. Thoms is an amusing tale in verse, with a series of illustrations that will delight the children. Sara's Business Venture by Hope Howard is as practical as it is interesting. That Pretty Little Widow by Georgia Grant, is a capital story capitalistically illustrated. The River by Minna Irving is one of her most dramatic poems, and the accompanying illustration is lovely. Another well written article effectively illustrated is Sidney Ross's account of A Buried City. These are only a few among the number's attractions. The fashion and household departments are simply perfect. Terms two dollars a year, with large reductions to clubs and useful premiums for getting up clubs. Send for a sample copy and get up a club. PETERSON'S MAGAZINE, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

The Mystic Valley Sewer.
Workmen are engaged in extending the Mystic Valley Sewer System so that it may be incorporated into the proposed Deer Island outlet.
The Mystic Valley Sewer was originally built for the purpose of disposing of the drainage from Woburn tanneries and currying shops situated along the line of the Lowell railroad. The head of the system is near the factory of James Skinner & Co. at Woburn Highlands, and the pipe follows the roadbed through Winchester and Mystic and West Medford, where the sewerage is chemically treated and the sediment retained, while the liquid, which is supposed to be as pure as water, is emptied by an outlet into Mystic ponds.

These ponds furnish supplies under the control of the Boston Water Company. The proposed system now building will receive the sewerage direct.

The Newest Thing There Is.
THE DOLL'S DRESSMAKER, a magazine for girls, reached its first birthday with a beautiful December number just at hand. This highly practical periodical has been well received by mothers and their daughters, who find in its pages much instructive and entertaining matter suitable to employ the minds and the sometimes mischievous fingers of their girls. The price is only one dollar a year, post paid, and we feel quite sure that soon could not be used to better advantage towards the education of our girls than through a subscription to this highly interesting magazine. For DOLL'S DRESSMAKER would make an admirable holiday or birthday gift. At any rate send to the publisher, Jennie Wren, 35 East 77th Street, New York City, for a sample copy.

The doctors say that the grip is raging here. Nobody but the doctors seem to have heard much about it.

It is thought that the bright stellar luminary of this village has about abandoned the hope of making Lawyer McCall Speaker of the next House.

Mrs. Clara R. Parker, who resides with her sister, Mrs. Harrison Parker, has been quite ill but is now recovering and her many friends here and in Woburn are glad to learn that such is the fact.

"Society" is quite on the alert for announcements of several high-toned social events concerning which the air in the aristocratic quarters of the town abounds in significant whispers. I'm looking for "swell" doings here from Christmas to Lent. Just you Woburn folks hold your horses!

At the regular meeting of the C. T. A. Society, held last Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected: President, Michael S. Nelson; Vice President, Thomas Connors; Recording Secretary, Dennis F. Foley; Financial Secretary, James E. Cullen; Treasurer, Timothy Healey. Rev. Fr. Walsh, Michael S. Nelson, Michael Holland, Henry Gray and James Fitzgerald were chosen Trustees, and Henry Gray, Timothy Noonan and Thomas Connors as an investigating committee.

I hear that there are going to be great doings here next Christmas Day. Every school, Church and Sunday School are getting ready for visits from Kris Kringle, Santa Claus, St. Nicholas, or any other of those gay old claps who come in raindeer-drawn, heavily laden sleighs, with bells jingling, and descend chimneys, and scatter happiness, glee and great merriment all over the land. The little ones are preparing for the grand festival day too, and so Winchester will probably have her full share of Merry Christmas's good cheer and delights.

I am glad to be able to say to the many readers of your valuable paper that the Winchester Y. M. C. A. have done a great deal of good here and bid fair to do a great deal more. They are a live Christian organization, working for the benefit of their fellowmen, uplifting the unfortunate and sinful, and casting about for more souls to save. And I tell you, dear JOURNAL, if there is a community in this State that needs just such a power for good working among them it is ours. Vital piety seems to be going to seed here. There needs to be a general and vigorous shaking up of the dry bones, and the Y. M. C. A. may yet be instrumental in bringing about a new order of things.

A SERMON

Preached at Wob. Dec 29, 1871, A. M.

BY JACOB COGIN, A. M.

68 P. 20. He that is our God, is the God of salvation, and unto God the d. belong the issue from death.

As Salvation from eternal misery and despair, and an admission into a state of everlasting blessedness & felicity is the one thing truly needful, & of infinite weight & importance to us, so we should be made sensible that it is not in the hands of any created being to save us, & that God, the d. of all is the only efficient cause of our salvation. Says the Psalmist, who was inspired by God, in the v. preceding our text: Blessed be the d. who daily loadeth us with benefits, even the God of our salvation. The Psalmist here expresses his thankfulness unto the d.
God Almighty for innumerable mercies: not only for the grand and glorious blessings of X's ascension, mentioned in the preceding v., but for daily favours & benefits conferred on us. He speaks of God's loading us with his benefits, i. e., with favours & mercies.
And this is agreeable to common speech.
Men are said to be loaded by another when they receive favours & benefits from him in great abundance. The Psalmist adds, even the God of our salvation, i. e., God Almighty is the sole author & finisher, both of our present, & of our eternal salvation.
And then follows the words now read unto us. He that is our God, is the God of salvation, & unto God the d. belong the issues from death. As it belongs to the God the d. to grant salvation, so it is in his hand & power to dispose of the issue of death. By the issue of death, we are to understand escapes or deliverances therefrom, or in death, i. e., in the greatest dangers, yea, even death itself, in & from which the mighty God, through X delivers his people.

In speaking to these words of the inspired Psalmist, I shall endeavor:
1. To give some representation of this salvation spoken of by him.

2. Show that the salvation of the people of God is owing unto God the d.
He grants salvation as he admits to the happiness of the heavenly state &
w., & delivers from eternal death.

He that is our God, is the God of salvation & unto God the d. belong the issues from death. In the first place, I am to give some representation of this salvation spoken of by the Psalmist.

Now this salvation may mean present & eternal salvation, but especially salvation in the future state & w., & in this sense, which is undoubtedly the special meaning of the Psalmist, I shall consider it.

This salvation is an everlasting salvation, which consists in a perfect deliverance from all evil. It consists in a full & complete deliverance from sin, which God the d. hates & abhors; from the power & dominion, from the defilement & pollution, of sin. In this salvation there is an entire freedom from the hidings of God's face, & from the allurings of wicked one, that would of immortal spirits, & disturber of the people of God. In this salvation there is a freedom from the assaults & attacks of principalities & powers, of the rulers of the darkness of this w., & of spiritual wickedness in high places. In this salvation there is also a deliverance from trouble & affliction, from pain & sickness, from sorrow & from death.
St. John in representing the excellency of the church, which is above, says in his Rev. 21. c. 3, 4: And I heard a voice out of heaven saying: Behold the tabernacle of God is with men, & he will dwell with them, & they shall be with him, & be his people. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; & there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away. All sorrow, & all the causes of sorrow shall be removed from the saints in heaven; they shall have no outward cause, nor inward inclination to weep: there shall be no dying, but immortality & life everlasting; nor any more trouble and distress, but joy and pleasure everlasting. In this salvation there shall be taken from our eyes, all sorrow expelled from our souls, & we shall be forever with the d., even our God, to serve him with strength, to praise with pleasure & delight, to love him above measure, to fear him without distrust, to obey him without distraction, & to be perfectly like unto him in holiness & immortality. In this salvation is also the fruitful of all good. It is to enjoy God himself in whom all good centers.

It is to be forever in the presence of the Lamb, the only begotten of the father, & the d. of everlasting glory. It is to be the companions of glorious Angels, & the spirit of good men perfected in heaven. In a word, it is to enjoy all that happiness & glory which is at God's right hand forevermore. Indeed the nature of this salvation is such, that it is not possible for earthly sons to describe it. For no mortal eye hath seen, nor ear heard, neither has been conceived of the sons of men conceived the things which God has prepared for them that love him. And those that have the inexpressible happiness of being the subjects of this salvation will be ready to express like the Queen of Sheba to Solomon: It was a true report that I heard of it, & that one half of the greatness of this salvation was not told me.

It proceeded now to show that the salvation of the people of God is owing unto God the d.

He that is our God, is the God of salvation, & unto God the d. belong
the issues from death.

The whole work & business of the salvation of the people of God, is owing unto him, & all the parts thereof. The full & complete salvation of a good man from the first to the last, from the lowest to the highest step, must be ascribed to the free grace & favour of God, through the merits of his only begotten & dearly beloved Son.

It may be said, the salvation of the people of God from the guilt of sin is owing to the d. God.

He that is our God, is the God of salvation, & unto God the d. belong the issues from death. When persons have broken the precepts and commands of a holy & righteous God they lie exposed to suffer the penalty annexed to his laws, and without forgiveness must really suffer the punishment provided. But by the remission of sin the guilt is removed, & this is done by God the d. Sin is a breach of the divine Law, & therefore it must be the Almighty God, the great Law-giver, & the d. of all alone, that can save from the guilt thereof.

The Psalmist says in 41 P. 4:
Against thee, thee only have I sinned, & done this evil in thy sight. Who then grants the remission of sins but the d. God Almighty? Sin is a debt, & as a debt obliges the debtor to payment, so sin does the sinner to punishment. As the creditor has a right to exact full payment from the debtor, so God has a right to inflict punishment on the guilty. Therefore we are directed to pray, Math. 6, 12, forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors.
And the Psalmist being convinced that salvation was owing to the d. God, prays as in 51 P. beginning: Have mercy upon me, O God, according unto thy loving kindness: according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions. Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity & deceive me from my sin. And if God the d. did not deliver us from the guilt of sin, we must unavoidably suffer the punishment provided for sinners.

2. Deliverance from the prevailing strength of sin is owing to the d. God.
Sin not only binds the soul over to death eternal, but sets up a throne in sinner's hearts. Sin is a mighty king, who has a royal power over the enslaved sinner. Those therefore that are under the prevailing strength & power of sin are subjects of salvation, & slaves to their unruly appetites, & so are the children of wrath, because children of disobedience. As you may see in Ep. 2, 3: Among whom also we had our conversation in times past, the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh & of the mind; &
we were children of wrath, even as others.
This is the miserable state of us all by nature, & it is only the mighty God that can deliver us out thereof. Says the Ap. in the 40: But God, who is rich in mercy, for the great love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with X. Now as the Omnipotent God delivers us from the guilt of sin, by the atonement of X's blood, so he delivers from the prevailing strength & power of sin by his holy spirit. He destroys the seal of sin & Satan in your hearts, & erects his Throne there, & there rules & governs, & they submit to his power & dominion. He makes the soul willing in the time of his Almighty power. He turns it from darkness unto light, & from the power of sin & Satan unto himself. Now that is ascribed unto God the d. by the Ap. Rom. 6, 17: But God be thanked that ye were the servants of sin; but ye have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine which was delivered you. It is therefore owing to God that the power of sin is destroyed in his saints & people.

3. A freedom from the defilement of sin is owing to the d. God.

Sin has a being & existence in the immortal soul & defiles it, & all the services thereof. Sin not only exists in the sinner, but the real status of God are polluted & defiled therewith, & so their best services are failing & deficient. And this good men are ready to acknowledge. Yea, Isaiah himself, that evangelical Prophet, when he saw the king the d. of hosts, cried out, Isai. 6, 5: Woe is me, for I am unclean, because I am a man of unclean lips. But it is God that saves from sin. Says he, Ezek. 36, 25: I will sprinkle clean water upon you, & ye shall be clean: from all your filthiness, and from all your idols, will I cleanse you. The d. God Almighty begins the good work of grace in the never dying soul, & he will increase it, until it arrives to a perfect state in glory. If good men fall into sin, yet Satan shall not finally prevail against them, for they shall be preserved by the Almighty power of God, through faith unto salvation.
